Try to Arrange
Peace Conference
With French, Rebels

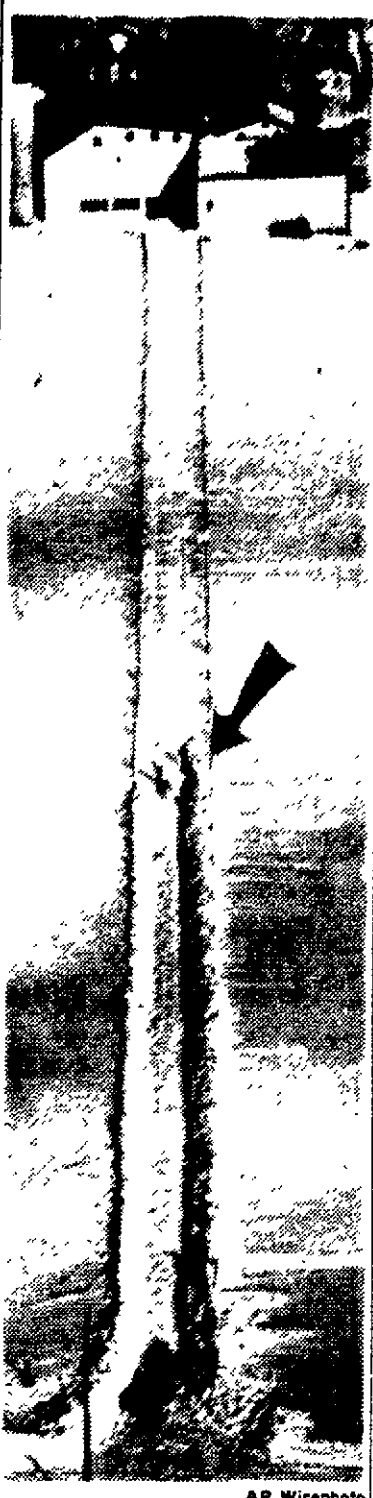

PARIS (AP) — A special envoy from Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba met with President De Gaulle today to explore whether Bourguiba could help arrange peace talks between the French and the Algerian nationalist rebels.

Tunisian Information Minister Mohammed Masmoudi called on De Gaulle less than 18 hours after his arrival in the French capital, stressing the urgency both Bourguiba and De Gaulle seemed to attach to the possibility of negotiations.

Bourguiba sent Masmoudi hurrying to Paris after De Gaulle reportedly mentioned to the Tunisian Charge d'Affaires, Tahar Belkhouja, at a reception last week that he would like to talk with the Tunisian president.

Talks in Paris
Bourguiba is scheduled to come to Switzerland at the end of the week for annual treatment for a throat condition. Masmoudi probably will be on hand for his arrival to tell him about his talks in Paris.

The Tunisian chief of state is in a particularly good position to know the thinking of Algerian Rebel Premier Ferhat Abbas, who has headquarters in Tunis. Masmoudi's talk with De Gaulle should fill Bourguiba in on French views, and he then may be able to take concrete steps toward getting the two warring sides together.

Big Electrical Firms Likely To Face Suits

Civil Actions May Result From U. S. Antitrust Rulings

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The government breakup of the giant conspiracy in the $2-billion-a-year heavy electrical equipment industry, halting illegal price fixing and bid rigging, may be followed by many civil suits.

Customers may seek to recover thousands of dollars, perhaps millions in alleged overpayments. Such action could be in the courts for years. The suing customer must prove he was damaged by price-fixing or bid-rigging. This is not easy, attorneys said.

Industry sources, meantime, said equipment prices remain virtually unchanged. The General Electric Co. said it voluntarily was undertaking studies with utilities and other customers to determine whether "recent violations of the antitrust laws by certain employees had been financially detrimental to these customers."

Review Situation
"We have taken the initiative in advising each of the customers concerned that we desire to review this situation with them, and to make adjustments if warranted by the facts," the company said.

Ralph J. Cordner, General Electric board chairman, said he had asked Charles E. Wilson, former company president, to represent the company in this effort. The intensive federal probe that began 18 months ago ended Tuesday as U. S. Dist. Judge J. Cullen Ganey finished sentencing 29 companies and 44 of their top executives.

It was a two-day job in Ganey's courtroom where he imposed total fines of $1,924,500 and 30-day jail terms for seven men. A 45th individual, too ill to appear, will be sentenced later. All the indictments accused the defendants of fixing prices, maintaining them at high and artificial levels and restraining competition.

Company fines, totalling $1,787,000, must be paid within 10 days. Individuals, assessed $137,500, must pay within 20 days.

Senate Committee Approves Weaver As Housing Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The senate, William A. Blakley, D-Tex., and one Republican—Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah.

Robertson said that because of his opposition the nomination would be reported to the senate by Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., a strong supporter of Weaver. Ordinarily, the chairman makes the report.

Robertson said the formal report would be made tomorrow, and that he expected the senate to consider the nomination about Feb. 20—at the end of an informal recess for Republican Lincoln Day speeches.

Opponents of the nomination will state their case in the senate, Robertson said, but declared there would be no disposition to delay senate action.

Weaver was before the committee only half an hour this morning. He underwent lengthy quizzing yesterday.

Raul Assails Clergy

Priests Accused Of Bombing Plots

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime kept up its bitter anti-clerical campaign Tuesday night with a charge by Defense Minister Raul Castro that Roman Catholic priests are active in bombing plots against the government.

The prime minister's younger brother told a crowd of several thousand roaring students one priest was caught planting a bomb at a munitions depot and another was arrested trying to join invaders from the Dominican Republic.

Priests Are Target
It was one of the strongest attacks on the clergy since the Castro came to power, and once more the target was Spanish-born priests, the majority of the clergy in Cuba. The Castro regime claims they act on the orders of Spanish dictator Francisco Franco.

Despite his charges, Raul left the impression the Communist-dominated regime plans no immediate action against the church.

President to Air Views on Civil Rights

Plans Comment at Time He Thinks Most Effective

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy pledged today that he will use the "moral authority or position of influence of the presidency" in school desegregation situations.

The President at his news conference said students should be permitted to attend schools in accordance with court decisions.

The statements were made in response to a request for comment on a boycott by white students of schools in New Orleans, ordered desegregated three months ago by a federal court. A reporter said there appears to be an organized campaign of intimidation which has kept most white children out of these schools.

Delays Comment
Kennedy replied that he will speak out about the New Orleans situation "at such time as I think it is most useful and effective."

He said he will attempt to use the "moral authority or position of influence of the presidency in New Orleans and in other places."

Pressed for a more specific statement, Kennedy said: "As far as New Orleans goes it is my position that all students should be given the opportunity to attend public schools regardless of their race, and that is in accordance with the Constitution." Kennedy said it is his opinion that the people of the country believe as he does about this matter.

Plane Strikes Deer As Pilot Lands Craft At New London Port

NEW LONDON — A plane piloted by Paul Kamke Jr., struck a deer while landing at the New London airport about 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Kamke said he was returning from a night flight to Shawano and had just touched down when the deer jumped in front of the plane. The plane, at the time, was traveling about 65 miles per hour.

The 125 pound doe was killed instantly. Slight damage resulted to the plane. Other passengers in plane were William Herman, Herb Resch and Russell Young, all of New London.

No Conclusion Reached on Relative Missile Power Of America, Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy said today he sincerely believes America's ability to maintain its position in the world will be severely tested in the next four years.

That was his reply to a news conference question as to whether he has been painting the U.S. picture blacker than it is "for shock purposes."

And Kennedy insisted his administration has not yet reached any firm conclusion as to the relative position of this country and Russia in missile strength.

There were published reports the last two days that Pentagon officials believe the so-called "missile gap" versus Russia did not exist—in short, that this country was as strong in missiles as the Soviets.

Briefing by McNamara
The New York Herald Tribune said today the stories to this effect were based on a background briefing held by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Kennedy said he had talked with McNamara and other defense officials, and that the secretary "stated that no study had been concluded in the Defense Department which would lead to any conclusion at this time as to whether there is a missile gap or not."

The President added that it is hoped a preliminary study could be completed by Feb. 20. He said he hopes this country is "completely secure" as to the missile situation, but the answer is not yet clear.

Republicans in Congress had chortled over the reports that there was no genuine missile gap. No Live Television
Some of them had suggested that perhaps other "gaps" which Kennedy professed to see didn't really exist.

It was against this background that a newsman asked whether Kennedy had been seeking to use "shock tactics."

This third presidential news conference for Kennedy, unlike the two earlier ones, was not televised. It drew 237 newsmen to the White House.

Judges Fight Change in Law

Bill on Custody of Delinquent Children Brings Sharp Debate

MADISON (AP)—Indications of a sharp jurisdictional fight over a bill to retain custody of delinquent children to juvenile judges were evident Tuesday at an Assembly Public Welfare Committee hearing.

Welfare spokesmen urged the committee to make no changes in the 1955 Children's Code, which gives custody of delinquent children to county welfare departments. Rock County Juvenile Judge Ralph S. Gunn of Janesville argued that in some cases judges should have temporary custody of these children. He criticized the handling of delinquency cases by several different social welfare case workers as "departmentalization in dealing with children."

A representative of the Wisconsin Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers, Milton Hanson of Madison, said judges should leave work with delinquent children to administrative groups. The new bill would be harmful to long-range welfare planning, he added.

Gunn snapped back, "just how big do you want welfare to get?" A judge often can better deal with a child through his own court officers than through a welfare agency, Gunn said.

Fourteen others, including juvenile Judge Edwin C. Dahlberg of Beloit, urged the committee to let juvenile judges retain custody of delinquent children.

Among five persons appearing against the bill was Henry Hendrickson of Oconto, a county welfare agent.

Macmillan May Visit Red China

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan is thinking of visiting Peiping next fall to begin the process of bringing Red China into the family of nations, informed sources said today.

They said Macmillan's venture in personal diplomacy will depend on his first getting the private approval of President Kennedy. He will see Kennedy in Washington in April.

The prime minister also needs assurance of a friendly reception in Peiping. There would have to be some prospect of positive results. The views of Britain's commonwealth partners and allies will have to be taken into account.

Chrysler Head Sued For $5.25 Million

Discharged President Files Action Against Chairman

DETROIT (AP) — William C. Newberg sued Chrysler Board Chairman L. L. Colbert for $5.25 million today, charging Colbert tried to destroy him to save his own job with the auto company.

Newberg was fired as president of Chrysler last June 30. In the suit in Oakland County Circuit Court he claims Colbert personally planned a conspiracy which led to the firing.

Two Chrysler directors and a Chrysler attorney were named as co-conspirators but not defendants. They were W. Alton Jones, chairman of the executive committee of Cities Service Corp., and Louis B. Warren, a partner in the New York law firm of Kelley, Drye, Newhall and Maginnes, both directors; and Francis S. Bensel of the same law firm.

Chrysler Corp. was not made a party to the suit. Newberg's petition stated Colbert "unlawfully and maliciously conspired with Jones, Warren and Bensel and others to injure and damage Newberg in the following manner:

"To fabricate, publish and disseminate a malicious falsehood concerning Newberg.

"To force Newberg's discharge from the presidency of Chrysler or to induce his resignation upon a threat of discharge.

"To hold Newberg up to public ridicule, disgrace, contempt, hatred and contumely, and

"To impute to Newberg dishonesty and want of integrity."

Newberg says he was kept so much in the dark as to what was going on last June that Colbert allowed him to make plans for a business trip to Europe, scheduled for four days after he ultimately was fired.

Newberg's suit repeats many of the charges made against Chrysler by a dissident stockholder's group headed by Detroit attorney Sol A. Dann at Chrysler's annual stockholders' meeting last June.

Hundreds of Homes Flooded, Cars Tip Over After Water Main Breaks

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A huge water main erupted below downtown today and sent tons of icy water cascading down north St. Louis streets, flooding hundreds of homes and overturning cars.

A number of persons were evacuated by boat. Authorities said there was no known loss of life. At least nine persons, most of them suffering from exposure and shock, were taken to hospitals.

Many Homes Heatless
Natural gas service was affected and many householders were without heat in 20-degree cold. It looked as if a river had been diverted through north central St. Louis. The water fanned out over an area of several blocks, spreading between rows of red brick to four - family flats. Every back yard was a lake.

9 Sent to Hospitals

The odor of gas hung over the area when a fire department rescue squad arrived. Hundreds of householders were awakened by firemen and police who waded through the flooded area, instructing people to turn off the natural gas supply.

The worst flooding was along 20th Street about half a mile south of the break in a low-lying section. Most of the flooding was in basements but the artificial persons, most of them suffering from exposure and shock, were taken to hospitals.

The water pressure failed over a wide area. There was no water in some sections of downtown St. Louis, three miles away.

Emergency crews were still attempting to shut off the flow of water four hours after the break in the area. The break was believed to be in a 48-inch steel main just beneath the water tower.

Harry Meister, acting deputy fire chief, said at least eight adults and one baby had been taken to hospitals. None was believed in serious condition.

Help Requested
Meister said the American Red Cross and Salvation Army had been asked to help the families affected.

"If this isn't a disaster, I've never seen one," Meister said. The boats used in checking homes and in rescuing a few families included one supplied by the U. S. Coast Guard.

The sudden rupture in the main, one of the largest in St. Louis, sent up a geyser of water beneath a large water tower on a knoll. "I was driving on East Grand to open up my shop when this thing went up like a gusher," said John Hudson, owner of a sand-

Prospects Dim for Easing Congo Crisis

Lack of Soviet-U. S. Agreement Makes It Appear That Current Debate Will End in Deadlock

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Lack of Soviet-U.S. agreement dimmed prospects today for any decisive U.N. Security Council action to ease the crisis in the Congo.

Despite the threat of spreading civil war in the chaotic new African nation, it appeared that the current council debate would wind up in another deadlock.

The council adjourned Tuesday night, with its next meetings to be held either Friday or next Monday. Members will confer privately, seeking some solution.

Hope Stirred. Hope for effective council action had been stirred by word that the United States was consulting privately with the Soviet condemnation of Belgium as an aggressor in the Congo. Inclusion in an effort to reach agreement on an over-all U.N. Congo policy, resolution would make it unacceptable to the Western powers.

Undermine Authority. French delegate Armand Berthelot told the council Tuesday that the statement after a two-hour private meeting Monday night with Valerian A. Zorin, head of the Soviet U.N. delegation, was a "deliberate attempt to undermine the authority of the Congo President Joseph Kasavubu."

Bitter opposition to freeing Lumumba came from Evariste Lolo. Kasavubu's special envoy to the council.

WATCH THE CHILD WHO HAS BAD FALLS

Negligence in checking children following severe falls is the cause of more children's disorders than any other thing. And winter time finds children meeting with minor accidents more than any other time of the year.

Numerous case histories of patients show a high percentage who trace the onset of their illness to a fall, many as far back as childhood. If you think back yourself, you may find that if you are now suffering with some bodily ailment, you can trace the beginning of that trouble to the time of a fall or several weeks or months after that.

Keep your spine free from nerve interference and you will enjoy good health. But most important of all, at this time of year, see that your children receive Chiropractic attention immediately following a severe fall.

Hint Cut in Legislative Council Funds

Claim Much of Group's Work Goes Into Wastebasket

MADISON (AP)—The Legislative Council, abruptly shoved out of its Capitol home last month to make way for Senate offices, got a hint Tuesday that it also may be victim of a cut in its budget.

At a hearing of the Joint Finance Committee, seeking to trim Gov. Gaylord Nelson's $503 million budget, Assemblyman Everett Bidwell, R-Portage, was the first to challenge council operations. He asked Executive Secretary Earl Sachse if there wasn't some way to cut down "all the material the council gathers in up in the wastebasket."

Sachse, who already has seen the council's 1961-63 budget request of $207,890 trimmed to $169,230 by the governor, blinked hard at the remark. Then he assured the committee that every effort is made to digest the volumes of material the council gathers in its interim studies.

"I'm probably the only man alive who reads all of our reports because I have to read them," Sachse said. But he defended the detailed council studies as essential to the proper drafting of legislation.

Sen. Horace Wilkie, D-Madison, then asked Sachse for his view on a rumored merging of the council and the legislative reference library.

"The two might work together very well," Sachse said. "There might be some advantage in shifting clerical and research personnel."

Sen. Chester Dempsey, R-Hartland, wound up the discussion with a jab in another area. He said he recalled that the council had been created as a "clearing house" for legislative suggestions resulting from interim studies and that bill-drafting never was a function intended for the council.

Crime Lab Request. "If we held to the old idea," Dempsey said, "possibly we wouldn't be grinding out quite as many reports."

Another major request heard by the committee came from the State Crime Laboratory. The agency is asking approval of a $200,256 appropriation to operate the next two years. The request is $14,000 more than the current outlay.

Laboratory director Charles Wilson said the additional funds primarily are needed to meet automatic pay increases for staff members.

UW to Receive Income From Will

MADISON (AP)—Gov. Gaylord Nelson today signed a legislative bill accepting income from the $12.9 million Vilas Trust for the University of Wisconsin.

The university will receive some $200,000 a year for scholarships and fellowships.

Col. William F. Vilas, a pioneer lumberman and U.S. senator who died in 1908, willed income from the estate to the university, but stipulated the gift must be approved by the Legislature.

Nostalgic Notes Sent After Ike Departed From President's Office

PARIS (AP)—The French presidential palace today made public the text of two nostalgic messages exchanged by soldiers Dwight D. Eisenhower and Charles de Gaulle when Eisenhower left office.

The personal letters were exchanged last month by the two associates in war and peace, both now 70.

De Gaulle wrote first to the outgoing president of the United States, addressing him as "Dear Mr. President, My dear friend."

"At our age," the French President said, "I do not know what the future can still hold for you and myself. But I know that all

Allis-Chalmers Plans No Further Penalties, Fines

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. said Tuesday it plans no further penalties for executives fined, as was the company, in the antitrust action brought for price and bid fixing in the electrical industry.

The Milwaukee firm issued a statement shortly after the last of the cases was disposed of Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Philadelphia. The sentencing began Monday.

In Tuesday's action, new fines of $67,500 were levied against Allis-Chalmers and another Milwaukee firm, Cutler-Hammer, Inc. In addition there were fines of $75,000 for McGraw-Edison, owner of Line Material Industries of Milwaukee, and $40,000 for Square D Company, which has a plant in Milwaukee.

Also on Tuesday an Allis-Chalmers executive, L. W. Long, assistant general manager, was fined $1,500 and given a 30-day suspended sentence. On Monday he was one of six Wisconsin executives fined. His penalty was $2,000 and a 30-day suspended sentence.

Pilot Runs Through Rehearsal for Test In Rocket Ship

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The next X15 rocket ship flight for Air Force Maj. Bob White—possibly next week—will be in a model with a powerful new engine.

White rehearsed for this role Tuesday by testing the rocket ship's new "hot nose" in an X15 with a small temporary power plant developing 16,000 pounds of thrust. He reached a speed of 2,112 M.P.H. during an 11-minute flight.

The more powerful model is designed eventually to rocket man from 50 to 100 miles at speeds senger train Tuesday when he chased his dog onto the tracks in neighboring Oak Creek. The dog was injured and had to be shot.

Lid of Box Chokes Youngster to Death

MADISON (AP)—The lid of a toy chest fell on the neck of 10-month old Richard K. Wahl Tuesday night, choking him to death.

Deputy Coroner John W. Stevenson ruled accidental the death of Richard, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wahl.

Police said that the lid of the toy box evidently had been left open and Richard pulled it down while his parents were in another room. Mrs. Wahl attempted mouth to mouth resuscitation but the child failed to revive.

Automobile Frozen Asset In New York

Hundreds, Thousands Of Cars Entombed Along City Streets

NEW YORK (AP)—If there ever was a frozen asset around here, it's the automobile.

Hundreds of thousands of them are entombed along the streets and parkways of New York City alone, not to mention the suburban areas. They're literally buried under mountains of snow.

If there should be another considerable snowfall soon, many of them probably won't be seen again until the Fourth of July. It's going to take a real summer thaw.

Miles From Home. Some of the vehicles are miles from home—abandoned as driveways to the fundamental friends bogged down Friday night in ship of France and the United States which inspired us both with the common ideal that each of us serves, but even more to the personal links that we have forged between us and which, if you wish, we shall maintain tomorrow and yesterday."

Eisenhower in reply said he was "profoundly touched" and assured DeGaulle that "the friendship born in the somber days of 1942 and which since has bound us has been a great comfort for me and that my sentiments of friendship have never been stronger than today."

Mutual Sentiment. "While regretting that we were not in a position to respond to your hope to create an official organization charged with concerting our plans and our programs in the four corners of the world," Eisenhower continued, "I am confident that because of mutual sentiments, even unofficial, our two countries can coordinate their ideas and their actions."

"Whatever happens, I am only one of millions and millions of Americans who are at your side in your enlightened effort aimed at bringing a peaceful solution to the Algerian problem."

"In considering the future, my dear friend, Mrs. Eisenhower joins me in sending you, as well as your charming wife, our best wishes that your life be long and happy."

The mention in Eisenhower's letter of DeGaulle's plan for an organization to concert western plans and programs apparently referred to DeGaulle's advocacy of a three-power directorate of the United States, France and Britain within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). This failed to find favor with France's allies and was dropped.

Halt Condemnation Without Jury Verdict

Assembly Body Wants Referendum Question Spelled Out in Bill

MADISON (AP)—A proposal to allow cities and villages to condemn property without a jury verdict of necessity—already passed by the Senate—was halted at least temporarily Tuesday in the Assembly Judiciary Committee.

A dispute developed over the wording of the question to be submitted to a proposed referendum, necessary because a constitutional change is involved.

A compromise referendum question, making specific mention of the proposed elimination of the jury verdict of necessity, was offered by Assemblyman William Ward, D-New Richmond.

Twelve persons appeared in favor of the bill and three in opposition.

Bruce Thomas, legal counsel to Gov. Gaylord Nelson, said the governor thinks the jury verdict is an "unreasonable requirement that delays worthy projects considered by officials."

Greco complained that the question passed by the Senate does not specifically state that the jury verdict of necessity would be eliminated.

Revised Question. "If it's to eliminate the jury verdict, say so," Greco urged the committee. "The citizens are entitled to a fair question."

Committee chairman, Assemblyman Angelo Greco, said he would bring the question back to the committee Tuesday when she jumped in trying to save her doll.

Prepare for State School Aid Fight

Nelson Won't Recommend Hike; GOP Trying to Embarrass Him

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Partisan battles are forming on a multi-million dollar issue that has attracted legislative politicians for generations—state subsidies for the local schools.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson has decided that he cannot recommend a more liberal state aid program for local school operations in a year when his budget bill already shows a huge deficit.

Republicans in the Legislature are attempting to embarrass him on the issue by offering legislation that would substantially increase the state school aid allotment—in defiance of the prospective state tax deficit. The situation is a new edition of a partisan by-play that has occurred in nearly every recent Legislature. When there were Republicans in the executive office they were the targets of similar maneuvers by the Democrats.

Increase Deficit

At stake is the largest single chunk of the state budget subject to legislative control. Gov. Nelson's proposal in his own budget is for $145,000,000 in school aids during the next two years. That will be sufficient to finance about 24 per cent of the rapidly rising school operations costs of all Wisconsin localities, covering both elementary and high school services.

Leader of the Republican attack on the school aid question is Assemblyman Walter Calvert of LaFayette and Iowa counties, chairman of the education committee of the state Assembly.

Calvert would add $17,000,000 to the biennial budget figure submitted to the lawmakers by the Democratic governor. If it is approved, it will increase the budget deficit, now calculated at about $68,000,000, to an equivalent degree.

Two years ago Nelson and legislative Republicans fought the same issue. The Republicans then insisted upon more school aid money, and Nelson didn't object although it upset his own financial plans. Most governors have found it difficult to stand in the way of

YOUR Social Security?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. Will I be able to draw Social Security benefits? I will be 62 after the first of the year and I have made $2,900 working.

A. The number of calendar quarters in which you have been employed and earned at least $50 is what determines whether you can qualify for benefits. A woman who will be 62 in 1961 will need 13 quarters of coverage, or 3/4 years work under Social Security.

Q. My husband has been deceased for 20 years. I cannot receive any Social Security benefits because he did not work long enough under Social Security. I read that there has been a change in requirements, could this affect me?

A. Survivors of any worker who died between March 31, 1938 and Jan. 1, 1940, may now get benefits if that worker had at least a year and a half under Social Security. If your husband died during this period you should contact your local office.

Life Insurance
Funds Helping To Fight Blight

$10 Billion Put
To Work in Decade
Throughout U. S.

Funds of life insurance policyholders are helping cities throughout the United States to fight the battle against urban obsolescence and decay.

In the past decade, life insurance companies have put more than $10,000,000,000 to work improving the business, residential and recreational facilities of American cities. This huge investment has made possible new office buildings, apartments, stores, schools, hospitals, hotels, theaters, shopping centers, bowling alleys, expressways, bridges, tunnels and many other facilities.

Many of these new structures have replaced crumbling tenements and outmoded commercial buildings which marred the beauty of downtown areas and jeopardized health, safety and morale.

Important Capital
Life insurance funds have been the most important single source of capital for the post-World War II office-building boom. A survey by Julien J. Studley, a leading commercial realtor, indicates that in New York alone life companies have invested about $750,000,000 in new Manhattan office buildings since the end of the war, including nearly all of the 150 or so major office structures built during this period or now under construction.

For example, New York's 52nd Street was formerly a synonym for nighttime gaiety. But the main string of gaudy cabarets and honky-tonks that once separated tourists from their dollars along 52nd Street have all been demolished. In their place is rising, among others, the new 43-story, $75,000,000 Unis Building at 1290 Avenue of the Americas.

Redevelop Area
In Pittsburgh, $75,000,000 of life insurance money went into redeveloping a 23-acre blighted area at the apex of the city's Golden Triangle where the Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers merge to form the Ohio River. This "Gateway Center" area is now a colorful plaza and park, bordered by six gleaming stainless steel office skyscrapers and a new hotel.

In the heart of downtown Philadelphia, several life companies have invested a total of at least $50,000,000 in the Penn Center development on the site of the old Broad Street Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Reserve Funds
In Hartford, Conn., a former 12-acre downtown slum is being turned into one of the most valuable pieces of real estate in New England through a $35,000,000 life insurance investment. When finished in 1963, this "Constitution Plaza" will include five modern office buildings, a shopping court, a 250-room hotel and an underground parking garage.

Life insurance money for city improvement comes mainly from reserve funds set aside to meet future obligations to policyholders.

Traditional Baseball
Cheers Appropriate
With Prison Team

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Shouts of "robber, thief, kill the umpire" may not be tactful in two newly chartered baseball leagues.

The National Baseball Congress said today that baseball had been adopted in a rehabilitation movement at the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola, La. Two circuits composed of prison teams were given separate franchises in the congress' National Association of Leagues.

The prison also received a charter for training inmates as baseball umpires as a career.

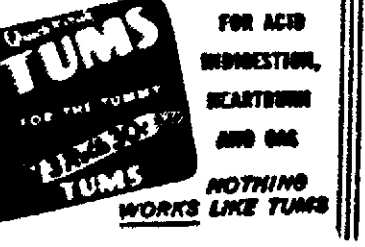

Blackie, Who Steals
Pencils, Popular Pupil

WASHINGTON, N. J. (AP) — Blackie is a popular student at Washington High School, even if he does steal pencils.

Blackie is a crow, the pet of 15-year-old Kenneth Lewis. Kenneth adopted the bird last summer, and when the vacation was over Blackie returned to classes with Kenneth. He even attended football practice sessions with his young master.

Kenneth said he has taught Blackie to say "Hello" and how to say his name.

Kennedy Sees Test On World Position

State Department Auditorium and brought questions ranging over a wide field.

Among the subjects touched on in announcements and questions and answers:

Prime Minister John F. Diefenbaker of Canada is coming to Washington Feb. 20 to discuss matters of mutual interest.

NATO Policy Study

Secretary of State Dean Rusk is making a study of policy in relation to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and will have advisory help from Dean Acheson, secretary of state in the Truman administration, among others.

The Welfare Department is setting up a child health center to deal with the special health problems of children.

On civil rights, Kennedy said he believes students should be permitted to attend schools in accordance with court decisions made in desegregation cases. As to the situation in New Orleans, he said he intends to speak out on it "at such time as I think it is most useful and effective."

Decision Deferred

Asked if he might want to cut taxes to stimulate the economy, Kennedy said he once voted, in 1958, against an anti-recession tax cut in March but voted for one in June.

"We are going to take a new look at the economy in April," Kennedy said, to determine whether the economy will move upward by early summer.

He said he wasn't sure Congress would entertain a tax cut proposal now and added that before such a plan be put forward the administration should have a clearer view of the probable course of the economy.

The President said he hoped Congress would act now on aid to distressed areas, extension of unemployment compensation and certain Social Security changes he has recommended.

Looks to Bonn

On gold, Kennedy said his administration was trying to get West Germany to do more in the problem of stopping the outflow of U.S. gold.

He said West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano is coming to Washington and he hoped the matter will be discussed then.

An afternoon meeting at the White House will discuss the crisis in Laos "and what new actions we should take now," Kennedy said.

Kennedy also mentioned Laos in connection with relations with the Soviet Union. A newsman, recalling the release of two U.S. fliers who had been held in Russia for seven months, asked what steps the President expects to be taken before a possible summit meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Envoy Returning

Kennedy said the release of two RB-47 fliers had removed a serious obstacle to relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

He noted Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson is returning to Washington for consultations, and added there are several issues that concern U.S.-Soviet relations, including Laos.

The President was asked whether this country knew details about the Soviets' seven-ton rocket launched last week and whether there was a human inside.

"There is no evidence that there was a man in the rocket," Kennedy said. But it may be a part of experiments leading to putting a man into space, he added.

No Undue Risks

As to whether this country is racing the Soviet Union to put a man in space, Kennedy said no undue risks are going to be taken with the lives of U.S. astronauts even if we do come in second.

To a question on the possibility of legislation to control domestic interest rates, Kennedy replied that he has no intention to ask for such legislation.

A reporter recalled that Secretary of State Rusk had said this country was prepared to take co-operative action with other governments of Latin America. He asked whether any steps were planned in connection with Cuba.

The President said the problem of tyranny throughout all Latin America is of special concern, and analyses of this situation are still in progress.

Refers to Weather

It was snowing outside as the news conference was held, and Kennedy slipped in a couple of references to the weather.

Once was when he was asked about his use of Camp David and the presidential yachts.

Kennedy said he wasn't going to use the presidential yachts "at the present time." The remark, because of the winter weather, evoked laughter from the newsmen.

About Camp David, he said he didn't plan to go there often. But he said he would keep the name Camp David and not change it to Shangri-La, as it had been called in the days when former Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman used it.

New Process for Desalting Sea Water Discovered by GE

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (AP) — The General Electric Co. said today it has developed a new process for desalting sea water, intended primarily for use by ocean-going vessels.

The distillation system could be adapted for non-marine uses at a low cost of operation, the company said. It gave no estimate of the cost of the conversion process.

A key feature of the process is vaporization of water without boiling or bubbling. This was achieved by an assembly of revolving blades which spreads salt water in a film one-thousandth of an inch thick.

The system can extract 42 pounds of fresh water from each 100 pounds of sea water, he said.

The development work was conducted by GE's Burlington, Vt., installation under a contract with the U. S. navy and the office of saline water of the Interior Department.

Henry Schroer, 16, Wilmont, Minn., pours milk for his brothers and sisters as he cares for the family six months after their mother and eight others were killed in a headon auto collision near here. The deaths left 37 children motherless in Wilmont. Henry quit school to care for his family. The father works in a Worthington, Minn., elevator. From left are Danny, 9; Tom, 13; Connie, 3, and June and Jane, both 8.

Archbishop of Canterbury Denies He'll Turn Catholic

LONDON (AP) — The outgoing Archbishop of Canterbury today denied a "wildly untrue" rumor in North America that he desires to turn Roman Catholic.

The Archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, told an Anglican church assembly of bishops, clergymen and lay representatives that the rumor was that he was retiring on May 21 because, having met Pope John XXIII last Dec. 2, "I desire to submit myself to the Rome obedience."

"To that I need only say that it is just as likely, no more and no less, that the Pope having met me desires to become an Anglican," Dr. Fisher said.

The archbishop also denied a rumor he said was published in several European newspapers that his retirement was due to controversies in Britain following his visit to the Pope.

"Another version," he continued, "from the other side of the Iron Curtain, was that I had been forced to resign because my visit had not had the political results which it was expected to produce."

"On the contrary," said Dr. Fisher, "there has been almost unanimous approval, both here and in countries overseas, and good results have already been visible, far exceeding anything that I could have expected."

The archbishop, who is 75, had announced he was retiring because he felt a younger man should take over his post as spiritual head of the Church of England. He will be succeeded by Dr. Arthur Ramsey, the present Archbishop of York.

Dr. Fisher said he always found it difficult to publicly deny "stories so absurd that no intelligent person could give them credence." But he said he had been informed the stories were "proving injurious" outside England and he had been asked to refute them.

Too Many Violations, Loses Permit for Taxi

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A detective told the city commission that William Jackson Jr. of Chattanooga has:

Been cited to city court on nine traffic counts in less than a year. Been without a driver's license since Jan. 28 when his was suspended.

Received notice that his liability insurance is being canceled.

The commission Tuesday accepted the detective's recommendation and revoked Jackson's taxi permit.

Royal Couple Finds New Man For Butler's Job

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret and Antony Armstrong-Jones have found a new butler who has promised not to say — or write — a word about life in the royal household.

Frederick Collier, a quiet bachelor in his late fifties, signed a pledge of silence before assuming his duties at Kensington Palace over the weekend.

He replaces Thomas Cronin, who quit Princess Margaret's service after difficulties with her commoner husband and then wrote a series of articles for a Sunday newspaper telling all about it.

Cronin, who now butties for a Miami, Fla., sports club, complained particularly that Armstrong-Jones used to snap his fingers to summon him.

Kensington Palace tried to keep the new appointment quiet but when the news leaked out a spokesman confirmed Collier had been hired.

Collier has a long string of references. He was butler to Earl Mountbatten, Princess Margaret's cousin, until the death last year of Lady Mountbatten.

Before that he was on the staff of the Duke of Gloucester, the Princess' uncle, when he was governor-general of Australia just after World War II.

Port Worry Over Ike's Order Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., said in the Senate Tuesday that Great Lakes cities were deeply disturbed over the "ship-America" order issued during the Eisenhower administration as a part of the program to check the drain on U.S. gold.

Wiley said the U.S. Foreign Aid Agency, which issued the order, had agreed to hold a hearing on the subject and had offered to grant all reasonable requests for exemptions. Hesai d Great Lakes interests are preparing to present their case at the hearing.

The order directs that foreign aid goods be shipped in U.S. vessels if possible. The purpose is to avoid payment of dollars to foreign shipping interests and the consequent build up of dollar balances abroad. It is foreign accumulation of dollars, and their exchange for gold, which has been drawing down the U.S. gold reserves.

Wiley said the order hit the lake ports particularly because ocean-going vessels under 40 foreign flags service the Great Lakes and there is only one U. S. liner. He added that if the order is allowed to remain in effect it will jeopardize U.S. and Canadian investments in the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Diplomatic Corps Kennedy Guests

WASHINGTON (AP) — President and Mrs. Kennedy entertain the diplomatic corps today at a formal White House reception.

They will meet the heads of 93 foreign missions stationed here. Vice President and Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson and Secretary of State and Mrs. Dean Rusk will join the Kennedys in receiving some 400 guests, including members of the cabinet and high state department officials.

In contrast to the Kennedys' first big White House social event—a reception Sunday Jan. 29 for the president's official appointees—the White House said there will be no bar.

Champagne—domestic and imported—will be passed to the guests by the White House staff during the 5 to 7 p.m. party. Hot and cold canapes and pastries also will be served.

There have been a few letters of protest written to the editors of Washington newspapers and a complaint from a local Methodist minister over the cocktails, mixed drinks and champagne served at the Jan. 29 reception.

Reports Getting Red Language Fragments On Radio Wave Length

BOCHUM, Germany (AP)—Heinz Kamanski, head of the Bochum Observatory, reported today his station has picked up Russian language fragments on the radio wave length believed used by the new seven-ton Soviet Sputnik.

Kaminski said he heard and tape-recorded the Russian equivalent of "come in, come in" on the 19.994 megacycle frequency. "The signals could have come from ground stations, though," he said. He added that, before and after he heard the voice, he received more signals on the same frequency.

was traveling south on Highway 49, the community's main street. Tracks in the snow indicate he traveled some 300 feet in the wrong lane and shoulder before the car struck an embankment and then the wing of a bridge before falling upright into the river.

It is believed Cash left the car and tried to climb the steep bank before collapsing. Authorities are trying to trace his movements last night to set the time of death. His neighbors say he left home about 7:30 p.m.

The body is at the Hempel Funeral Home. There are no known immediate survivors.

President's Youngest Brother Gets $1 Pay

BOSTON (AP) — Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, youngest brother of the President, has become a $1-a-year man in the office of the Suffolk County (Boston) district attorney.

A graduate of the University of Virginia Law School, he was sworn in Tuesday as an assistant district attorney. The job carries an annual salary of $7,700. Kennedy sought to serve without pay but, since state law forbids this, he will receive a token salary of $1.

Communist Newsmen Get Prison Terms

COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — Four Communist newsmen were given prison sentences totaling 51 months Tuesday on charges of plotting against the West German state. The four published a weekly newspaper for the Communist party, outlawed in West Germany.

Phone Company Puts Stop to Mysterious Music

NEW YORK (AP)—The telephone company has muted its mysterious music box in the Criminal Courts Building.

A bit of wire splicing cut off the sweet melodies that had been sneaking into the coin box phone from a worn-out wire that pipes music to restaurants.

Word had spread far and wide that the phone emitted music when some one picked up the receiver, and that a conversation when a dime was dropped in the had orchestral accompaniment box.

It seemed that everybody wanted to get into the act Tuesday—after the show was over.

Calls came in on the press room's silenced phenomenon from as far away as California. Frustrated callers expressed disappointment that the music was gone.

The reporters finally got tired of explaining how-come, so the receiver was removed from the hook.

Nathan Leopold Weds Widow in Puerto Rico

NEW YORK (AP) — Nathan Leopold, paroled 1924 Chicago thrill killer of 14-year-old Bobby Franks, was married in Puerto Rico Sunday to a widow who owns a florist shop, New York newspapers reported today.

Leopold, now 57, works as an orderly for Brethren Service Hospital at the inland Puerto-Rican village of Castaner.

Leopold and Mrs. Trudi Garcia de Quevedo were married by a judge at Castaner.

Union Develops Own Anti-Recession Plan

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—One Phoenix union local has developed its own anti-recession program.

About 100 members of Tile Setters Local 4 bought a gold mine north of here. About 40 of them are unemployed.

"The men are thinking they might as well work the mine themselves until things pick up," said Howard Reidy, union business agent.

Cabinet Develops New 'Strong Man'

Robert McNamara Identified 'As Comer in Kennedy Outfit'

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE
WASHINGTON — Every cabinet eventually develops a "strong man," who by some seemingly inevitable process becomes the big, clear voice next to that of the president himself.

The Kennedy cabinet already is turning up a muscular figure, very early in the game though it is.

Much less than a month in office, Robert S. McNamara, the new secretary of defense, is not only comfortably astride the vast Pentagon. He is also — by that word-of-mouth report which informs the Washington world outside the cabinet room — being identified as "the comer in the Kennedy outfit."

Great Step
He is the first of the new cabinet to take a public step of the first magnitude. This is his urgent plan to build up our troop carriers so that by July — rather than four years later — jet troop carriers will be available to hurl our infantry upon any brushfire war anywhere.

But previously he had taken important private steps, too, which established in a matter of days two points other defense secretaries had not always been able to establish in years. One was that the civil authority — McNamara's — was to be unarguably final at the Pentagon. The other was that the generals and admirals were to stop disagreeing in public with the high policies laid down by their constitutional superiors, the civil authority.

And McNamara in a cabinet meeting is described as "something to see." One source puts it this way: "You watch that young fellow (44) only a little while and you no longer wonder how he got to be president of Ford Motor Co."

Unimpressive Figure
An unimpressive figure, his gold-rimmed glasses glittering, his hair slicked back in the fashion of 30 years ago, he looks rather like a small-town insurance agent. But he stirs an impression, indeed, by the quality of the pleasantly firm, cool decisions he makes for the president's approval and for the somewhat amazed attention of his cabinet colleagues.

His power of concise expression is described — by people who know something about expression — as unmatched in a cabinet which, after all, has some other pretty articulate men. The least "political" and far the least-known of the cabinet when he came into it, he is rapidly becoming the best known of all. Already, his unpartisan, un-doctrinaire attitude is serving him well, at the capitol as in the administration.

Conservatives Happy
As secretary of defense, he must deal in congress with the two least-partisan committee it has, those on military affairs. And, as it happens, both these committees are headed by conservative Democrats who will not be happy with every aspect of Mr. Kennedy's new frontier but are still very happy that an old frontier, national defense, is in the hands of McNamara's band.

Now, to repeat, he is "not a politician." But in one of the central political skills, the handling of men, he may be more of a politician than he looks. For one of his first acts was to relieve an embarrassment of the chairmen of these two powerful congressional committees, Sen. Richard Russell and Rep. Carl Vinson, both of Georgia.

Incorrect Reporting
It had been incorrectly reported that Russell and Vinson, both highly reserved and highly correct old-school southern gentlemen, had been "pressuring" President Kennedy to appoint the Georgia governor, Ernest Vandiver, to a Pentagon post. McNamara picked up his hat, went to the capitol, and told Russell and Vinson he would be glad publicly to affirm that this was untrue.

They declined his offer, with thanks. But the fact he made it didn't exactly do him any harm anywhere in congress.

Stops Constipation Due to "Aging Colon"
New laxative discovery re-creates 3 essentials for normal regularity.

As you grow older, the internal muscles of your colon wall also age, lose the strength that propels waste from the body. Stagnant bowel contents become so dry and shrunken that they fail to stimulate the urge to purge. Relief, doctors say, lies in a new laxative principle. Old-style bulks and moisteners may create gas, take 3 or 4 days for relief. Old-style salts and drugs cramp and gripe the entire system. Of all laxatives, only new COLONIAID gives you its special 3-way relief that works only on the lower colon (area of constipation).

(1) COLONIAID moisturizes dry, hardened waste for easy passage without pain or strain. (2) COLONIAID's unequalled rebulking action helps restore flabby colon muscles. (3) And COLONIAID acts gently, on the nerve reflexes that stimulate the vital "mass movement" of your lower colon. COLONIAID relieves even chronic constipation overnight; is so gentle it was hospital proved safe even for expectant mothers. And COLONIAID won't interfere with absorption of vitamins or other food nutrients. Get COLONIAID today! INTRODUCTORY SIZE 43¢

Gov. Nelson's Budget

Gov. Nelson's biennial budget speech to the state legislature was a curiously hesitant and uncertain one, in which he spent a good deal of time and rhetoric in laboring the obvious fact that the local units of government of Wisconsin are contributing heavily to the financial pressures upon the state treasury.

If there is anybody interested in Wisconsin fiscal problems who is not aware that the lion's share of the tax income of the state and the localities is used for the financing of "local" services, he hasn't been paying attention. Former Gov. Vernon Thomson was saying many of the same things only three years ago, although to the accompaniment of some scoffing laughter from the liberal galleries. The governor's own tax revision commission during the last two years has repeatedly keynoted the theme in its reports. The League of Wisconsin Municipalities, the Wisconsin County Boards Association, the School Boards Association and a dozen other lobbies involved in local taxation and spending have cried the message for years.

What was missing from the governor's doleful summary of current fiscal trends was any suggestion that he proposes to meet these with a solid and courageous plan for basic tax revision.

It is perhaps not fair to anticipate the contents of the governor's revenue message, which is expected to be laid before the legislature at Madison this week. But the forecasts, apparently authoritative, are not optimistic. The political party represented by the governor, obviously has no stomach for leadership on this subject.

Aside from the governor's particular ideas on raising the money he says the state needs to balance his blueprint for financing for the next two years, the legislature now has a duty to examine the details of the Nelson budget with special care.

Sen. Draheim, chairman of the finance committee, has promised an especially vigilant scrutiny, perhaps reflecting the expectations of the general public. It may be that these biennial leaps in spending totals at Madison are inevitable, as the governor so worriedly insists. But before the average man in the ranks accepts the inevitability, he wants a fine tooth examination by the legislators he sent to Madison to represent him.

Our Canadian Friends

The 3,986-mile boundary between the United States and Canada, unfortified for over 100 years, often is pointed to as a model for the world. It is indeed an unusual national boundary and a matter of great pride for the people on both sides of it.

The millions of dollars that have been saved for the people of both countries because it was unnecessary to build fortifications and man them have made a real contribution to the wealth of both countries. Here indeed is the example of money saved through disarmament available for education and cultural purposes.

It is a good thing for the people of both countries to pause occasionally and consider this boundary line and how valuable it is to maintain friendly relations. R. M. Fowler, President of the Canadian Pulp & Paper Association, has called upon Canadians and Americans to modify their attitude on United States investments in Canada.

Recently unkind criticism has been passed across the border by commercial interests. Americans have been heard to complain loudly about the Canadian arrangements to trade with Cuba and thus take advantage perhaps of the American policy of cutting off its trade with that island country. On the other hand, the Canadians have complained about the big powerful American corporations taking over Canadian industries in both ownership and management. It was of this matter that Mr. Fowler spoke. He pointed out that the Canadians should not confuse anti-

Americanism with Canadianism and he said they should not be so sensitive about foreign ownership of Canadian enterprises. He told the Canadians they had been doing rather badly during the past year in their relations with the United States. In support of this he said, "The simplest way for a public speaker to catch the headlines is to give a rousing speech which masquerades as rugged, independent Canadianism but is really no more than anti-Americanism. This is a cheap and easy way to seek popular acclaim and it is dangerous and may be disastrous."

He estimated that the United States parent companies control about one-third of the Canadian pulp and paper industry. And then he said, "If they had chosen to build mills elsewhere, we would today be shipping not $900,000,000 of products to the United States but perhaps $425,000,000."

Then he offered a word of advice to the Americans:

"United States companies must allow their Canadian subsidiaries complete autonomy because when they come to Canada they are coming to another country and should take account of the different conditions, attitudes and aspirations that exist."

Mr. Fowler's words carry good advice to both Canadians and Americans. But perhaps the best thing is the indication that some of the responsible industrial leaders of Canada understand the situation between the two countries very well as do most of the American leaders.

are lasting effects. Students rioted in San Francisco and that cannot be condoned. But students have rioted or done other such rebellious foolish things since the first colleges began. The memoirs of a police chief in New Haven, for instance, is one long line of fracasces. In other areas, students have carried placards for or against strikes, formed parades for pacifism or the Spanish Civil War, swallowed goldfish or crammed themselves into phone booths. A few years ago there was consternation among parents and educators because college students were too quiet and serene and not upset about anything! They have been used by pressure groups, particularly of the liberal line, but we doubt that they have been highly influenced. They may even have learned something about the tactics of the enemy.

We think there is a place in the United States government for the House Un-American Activities Committee. The violent opposition among Reds indicates that it helps defeat their purpose. But the group must be responsible and levelheaded. We can sympathize with Chairman Francis Walter and his ire against criticism. We cannot condone his lumping together of his opponents as all following the Communist line. One could as easily say that anyone who spoke for peace and democracy was suspect since that is part of the professional Communist's lure.

When the dust settles we presume that the committee still will be intact but we hope it will use its authority a little more wisely. And the students will be looking for some other cause in which to throw off imaginary shackles and express wide-eyed opinions.

to such a costly program for peace time military service.

Liberal benefits for veterans, some of whom were in active service only six months, was not to encourage military personnel to remain in uniform. Yet that is a major objective of the armed services in the missile era: military personnel require extensive technical training and should be encouraged to stay in service.

It would be better to increase the pay of service personnel, rather than offer benefits to those who saw only short-term duty.

Because it would cover so many persons, the GI bill would in effect be a subsidy to education.

Drive Block Worker Finds Most People Wonderful, Generous

Editor, Post-Crescent:

This is a letter of thankfulness—thanks to the wonderful people whom one meets when soliciting for the varied and many health drives.

To the lady who says, "Oh, yes, just a minute, come in and get warm, of course,—John, Mrs. Smith is here for a charity drive."

To the little old man who says, "I would if I could, sorry. I'm 86 years old and can still shovel my own walks." Good health to you, sir.

Another woman tells of her own illness but adds, "Call again next year and maybe I can help then."

To those who dig deep into their hearts and billfolds to give a larger amount than you usually get—"it's for a good cause," they add.

The healthy little boy in pajamas who peeks around the staircase to holler, "Mom can I give my quarter?"

Also, the man who says, "Where's your badge, what is it this time," and adds, "Come visit sometimes when you're not collecting for something," and you know you will.

A lovely, little, lady in an apartment building says, "Come in, come in—I'll put the coffee on—don't mind the snow—here sit in this rocker and put your feet up. I must show you my latest Currier & Ives print. One feels so welcome, you wish you could spend two hours instead of 15 minutes."

Then there's the lady who speaks and retreats, and as you stand wondering, turns off the front room lights and stations herself at the window to see you leave. Oh, well, next place is another apartment—you can get warm in the foyer. Many flat paneled doors—the smell of cooking—you wonder—where shall I start, but start you do and after a series of older men, a door is opened by a young, handsome giant. You are so startled you step back and then laugh, explain, and collect all at the same time.

A teen-age baby-sitter whom you expect to explain and refuse—instead puts her hand in her plaid slacks pocket and gives a dollar.

Then you go home and think, "Really, I have received more than I have given—faith in human kindness, new thoughts, a tiny glimpse into other homes and other lives, last, again, a deep feeling of thankfulness for the generosity of the American people.

Thanks also to those who head up and organize these drives—giving many, many hours of their time and energy without thought of personal gain.

A Block Worker.

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I should like to commend President Kennedy for the vigor of his State of the Union address and for the numerous plans which he has for relieving human suffering which exists in so many parts of the world. I am deeply concerned, however, about President Kennedy's determination to speed our weapons production. He is doing so because, in his words, "Only when our arms are sufficient beyond doubt can we be certain beyond doubt that they will never be employed."

What is the point of safety when we can say we have weapons sufficient beyond doubt? Is it the point when we feel capable of annihilating the enemy? We already have about 25 times more than we need to destroy Russia. Is it sufficient when we have enough to destroy all mankind? Together Russia and the United States are in a position to exterminate all human life seven times over. The nuclear load in only one of our B52's has greater destructive power than all of the explosives used in all the previous wars in history. (The Strategy of Peace, John F. Kennedy, 1958).

In short, there will never be a time when we will feel that we have enough simply because Russia is also producing weapons of deadlier and deadlier quality.

If we both continue the arms race, the peace will be even in greater peril for these reasons. The risk of accident becomes greater and greater as the weapons systems become more complex. Recently the radar screen at Thule Airbase in Greenland spotted an unidentified object and the famous red telephone at the nerve center of our defense system rang. The officers tried to reach Thule to confirm the findings but they were unable to do so and they wondered whether Thule had already been destroyed. Thank God someone kept his head for it was found later that the undersea cable to Thule had snapped. What was the object on the screen that someone had misread? It was the moon. (Manchester Guardian).

Where shall we end? How shall we defend and exercise our freedoms if we are all dead, and dead by error? Our only hope for survival is in serious disarmament negotiations. Instead of the fallacious philosophy "let us arm to parley," we must earnestly parley to disarm. It is our only hope for survival, and it is morally right.

Looking Backward

River Pilots Behind 1861 8-Ball

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for the week of Feb. 7, 1861.

Gov. Moore, commander-in-chief of the army and navy of Louisiana, has issued orders to the Balize pilots not to pilot any American vessel of war over the bar at the mouths of the Mississippi River, under the severest penalties.

The order places the pilots in a rather tight box. If a vessel of war, bearing the American flag, should overhaul a pilot boat in the gulf, the probability is that the pilot will have to go aboard the vessel or the pilot, his boat and all hands will be sunk.

When the pilot gets on board the vessel, the next probability is that his attention will be called to the yard arm with the emphatic hint that if he does not do his duty faithfully, he will have to dangle in the air.

If this not be placing the Balize pilots in a tight box, we don't know what is. (Reprinted from the New Orleans True Delta.)

Sub-zero temperatures added to the difficulties Wisconsin and upper Michigan were experiencing in trying to dig out of 8 to 12-foot snowdrifts that almost completely tied up rail, highway and air traffic.

The house passed the senate-approved bill repealing the compulsory cotton, potato and tobacco control acts.

C. O. Baetz was named inspector for the sewage disposal plant construction work by the board of public works.

R. L. Swanson was elected president of the Appleton chapter of the Izaak Walton League. He succeeds W. Ray Challoner. Lester Weinandt was elected vice president and Arthur H. Benson, treasurer.

Small Chance of Hike In Highway Levies

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The expected drive for a new round of highway taxes to finance an enlarged state highway improvements budget now appears unlikely to develop.

There were plenty of hints by the highway builders and administrators during the last few months that pointed to the kind of a campaign that brought the last state motor fuel tax increase in the 1955 legislature. The revival of the Good Roads Association, which is a front for the highway construction lobby, the steady stream of publicity releases from the state highway department about the non-construction demands upon its funds that are cutting down the money available for construction, and some of the keynote speeches at the meetings of state and county highway officials, appeared to represent a plan.

But there is no sign thus far in the current legislature of any such design, perhaps because there is no apparent disposition among the legislative leaders to entertain such notions at a time of hard decisions ahead about the financing of the ordinary run of state services.

BAD TIME

When the average legislator is worrying about the roll calls on general tax bills that may offend a large slice of his constituency, it will be hard to persuade him to hit him again with a tax boost on his automobile.

It is evident from the highway commission's budget reports that the amount of highway improvement money that will be available in the next few years will be reduced. Other operations costs are increasing and especially the cost of maintaining the highways—which includes everything from patrolling to road-side clean-up, marking and signing, snow removal and minor repairs. A part of the explanation lies in the policy decisions of the commission. Snow removal and ice prevention, for example, are undertaken at a far more intensive, stroyed. Thank God someone kept his head for it was found later that the undersea cable to Thule had snapped. What was the object on the screen that someone had misread? It was the moon. (Manchester Guardian).

Where shall we end? How shall we defend and exercise our freedoms if we are all dead, and dead by error? Our only hope for survival is in serious disarmament negotiations. Instead of the fallacious philosophy "let us arm to parley," we must earnestly parley to disarm. It is our only hope for survival, and it is morally right.

The maintenance costs of the new roads, moreover, will be enormous by past experience and standards. The new Interstate dual lane roads will double maintenance disbursements per mile, at a conservative estimate. While the Interstate program with 90 per cent financing from Washington looked like a great bargain, few of the highway promoters thought to mention that the up-keep costs are the responsibility of the state alone, without any generous handouts from Washington.

All of these matters are legitimately concerning the highway administration. Yet it is doubtful that the general public, including the highway dues payers, are yet persuaded. As far as the average motorist knows, there is a good deal of construction going on.

NELSON

Something as politically sensitive as a substantial increase in taxes upon highway users, moreover, generally requires the leadership of the state executive. The 1955 gasoline tax increase campaign, carefully planned and powerfully led as it was, would not have succeeded without the friendly backing of Walter J. Kohler, then governor.

Gov. Nelson came into office with stated plans for an enlargement of highway construction. He has talked about more super-highway—aside from the Interstate program—and once said he was going to propose a program of long-term borrowing for such major extensions.

But the governor has been non-committal lately, even when his own highway commission chairman, Harvey Grasse, has been uttering eager hints. The reasons for his hesitation can probably be guessed. A legislature that has spurred his plans for bonding to finance more pressings needs in institution building is not likely to respond to highway borrowing. And at a time when Nelson is worrying about his general tax problem, it would not be prudent to talk about more highway taxation too.

Drivers Must Make Own Safety Laws

From The Wisconsin, Traffic Safety Reporter

After three years of improvement, the Wisconsin traffic death toll took a turn for the worst in 1960.

The fact that Wisconsin put together three consecutive "winning" years probably goes back to drastic measures for traffic accident prevention taken in the legislative year of 1955. In 1956, a year of gradual implementation of legislative provisions for building up the state patrol, strengthening the driver examination program and instituting a "point system," the state's traffic death toll reached its high point of 955. The following year it began its downward trend.

By 1958, however, the relentless pressure of increasing traffic was again very apparent. The annual death toll dropped, but almost imperceptibly. Then came 1960 and bad news.

Will the forces for traffic accident prevention be able to pick themselves off the floor in 1961?

Certainly in this legislative year there will be close scrutiny of the problem and thorough consideration of proposed remedial measures. But again it must be brought home to each driver that he is a custodian of the public safety. When safety measures fail, he loses; when they prevail, he wins.

Each must make the good fight.

Extra Pounds Hike Your Death Chances

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Here's the real cost of obesity in middle age—every extra pound you put on increases your death chances roughly about 1 per cent. Studies show that in people between 45 to 50, 10 pounds of excess weight lifts their mortality rate 8 per cent; 30 pounds, 28 per cent; and 50 pounds, 56 per cent.

What is your gab index? The average adult American, it is estimated, speaks about 4,800 words a day. About the same number a teenager uses in an hour on the telephone.

Philosophy Course Offered

UW Extension System Provides Opportunity For Study at Home

MADISON — A home study course in American philosophy has been designed by a University of Wisconsin associate professor and is being offered through the UW Extension's correspondence study program.

The course, "Philosophy 300," can be taken individually or in a directed group study plan. It demands no advance training in philosophy. Instead, as the author notes, "it was designed to enlighten adults with no previous training in philosophy to take the fateful plunge."

It's sources of reading assignments are both quasi-philosophers like Emerson, Thoreau and Jefferson and true philosophers like Wisconsin's Max Otto, T. V. Smith and John Dewey.

Popular Philosopher

Students will also read wisdom of the "popular philosopher" Walter Lippmann and the ironic dissection of American institutions by Thorstein Veblen.

A strained philosopher has prepared the study guide for both the individual student and the discussion group. He is Cornelius L. Golightly, associate professor of philosophy at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Prof. Golightly has contributed to many scholarly journals in philosophy and the social sciences and delivered many lectures.

Go About Writing, Outlining In Familiar Logical Manner

BY LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D., with HARRY KARNS

The ability to organize and express thoughts clearly and concisely is one of the greatest assets a student can possess.

As you go up the ladder in school, you will be asked more and more often to write themes, reports and essays. Your grades in some courses will depend almost entirely on how well you have written your reports.

It is unfortunate that many students approach the act of writing with a sense of awe. You do not have to be a literary genius to write a competent paper. In fact, save you much fretting and many hours of work. You may write the finest paper in the world but, if that "inspiration" is needed.

Simply go about it as you would if it is not on the topic assigned, you any other project. Decide what are going to be in trouble. has to be done and figure out the most logical way to do it.

Here are some steps that will help you in mapping your written reports:

1. Make sure you understand exactly what the teacher expects you to write about.

If you are not sure, write a sentence stating what you believe the subject to be and show it to the instructor.

Understanding the topic can which offer some promise of giving the information you want. Behind each reference, write down the page number.

3. Now start gathering the information from these sources. Make notes in your own words, don't just copy what the writer has written, unless, of course, you intend to quote him word for word. Credit the source.

Don't copy material down in wholesale lots. Be selective. Ask yourself: "Does this actually pertain to the subject?"

This doesn't mean you should accumulate only a few notes. Gather plenty of material that you can use. It is better to have some facts and ideas left over than to have too few.

Don't Bluff

When you find that you have run out of things to say and yet have not written a substantial paper, this is the signal to go back and do more research. Don't try to "bluff" it out. If your teacher is a good editor of reports, he'll detect your effort to pad.

4. After gathering your material, that is, make an outline. Decide which ideas are the big ideas, and which ideas are the smaller, supporting ideas. Decide the order in which these ideas should appear in the finished product.

The extent to which you use these suggestions will be governed, of course, by the nature and the length of the paper you are asked to write. Normally, a one-page theme will not require the research required for a four-page report.

If your assignment is a lengthy term paper, you will want to consult one of the many fine books that have been written to guide you in that kind of project.

Of the four steps described above, the one most likely to spell success or failure for your paper is Number 4.

How to Outline

If you have never learned to make an outline, you should take plain or support statement number 1. Place them under I in their proper order as statements A, B, C, D and so forth.

Let us use a simple example. A book on guinea pigs might contain a chapter which opens with the statement that guinea pigs make excellent pets. The chapter time out right now to learn how. First, open a book to a brief chapter. The first paragraph or so, perhaps even the first sentence, will contain a statement of what the chapter is about. Write Roman numeral 1 on the top line of a sheet of paper, and copy that sentence behind it.

Second, find the main ideas or items of information in the remainder of the chapter which explain or support statement number 1. Place them under I in their proper order as statements A, B, C, D and so forth.

After you have practiced outlining material that is already written, reverse the process. Write down a list of observations, thoughts and facts about a subject with which you are familiar. Now take another sheet of paper and rearrange this material in a logical, sensible order.

You will get from this a sense of harmony and rightness which will give you enthusiasm and confidence when you start the actual writing of your report.

Lawrence Says Confidence in U. S. Must be Rebuilt Now

New President Has
Business Interests

WASHINGTON — With a depression under way, a president of the United States, in his inaugural speech said: "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

Those words of FDR have a special meaning right now. For there is one word that it is necessary for the president of the United States to convey to the American people today, and that's "confidence."

In some respects, President Kennedy has scared American business. He may not have intended his "State of the Union" message to stir up fears, but cries about "national peril" and hints that maybe the American system of government may have to be changed ended the Kennedy term has had a depressing effect on business psychology.

It's a paradox that, while the Kennedy proposals have been restrained and cautious and not in themselves radical, apprehension has developed that any day something drastic may come. This needs to be replaced by convincing evidence to the contrary from the White House.

More Uneasiness
For one thing, the many presidential advisers, with their "task force" recommendations, have added more uneasiness to an already uneasy mood.
When these advisers start talking vaguely about uprooting the business system, tax rates and all,
and when the impression is transmitted through the press that much of the country is a "distressed area," the natural reaction by the buying public as well as the business-planning public is to hesitate and wait and see what's coming.

It is argued that perhaps the Kennedy strategy was to speak of "national peril" in order to introduce an emergency psychology in Congress so as to get certain legislation passed. If true, this really was unnecessary. For when unemployment steadily rises and reaches 5,400,000, there's already a sober realization that the country isn't experiencing a boom.

What is most unfortunate is the many sweeping statements being made in high places here about the business situation without taking into account the brighter side
— the many parts of the economy that are functioning either normally or so close to normal that the talk of recession causes a fear that they may be the next to be hurt.

The president's message about strengthening our position internationally, especially on halting the outflow of gold, was sound.

Domestic Picture
It's the domestic picture, indeed, which needs to be cleared up. Is the recession as bad as has been painted? Are some of the signs of recovery that have already put in their appearance significant? Will some of the new appropriations to be made by Congress take effect after the recovery has started and thus tend to bring on an artificial boom with all the restraints on the money market that usually are applied when that happens?

The whole economic mechanism is more delicate than a fine watch. Governmental action is a big factor, but the private sector is still a self-propelled affair and the equilibrium can be upset at any time by the monopolistic power of organized labor. The government rightly cracks down on trusts and monopolies when business engages in restraints of trade, but no such brakes are put on the monopoly that virtually fixes prices and working hours in nearly every big industry. The use of machines and automatic equipment are opposed in defiance of the fact that technology can be helpful in bringing prices down and increasing the public's purchasing power.

On the same front pages, for instance, that announced the jail sentences imposed on seven business executives for price-fixing, there appeared an announcement that James R. Hoffa, head of the Teamsters union, is reaching his goal of a master union agreement, covering virtually every truck-driver in the country. This would make it possible for him to tie up the nation's entire trucking system at any time that he might choose to call a strike. There's no law as yet to break up such monopolies.

Confidence Necessary
Mr. Kennedy said again and again that he hopes to bring about an economic equilibrium both at home and abroad, but he will have a hard time doing so unless he is able to alter the pessimistic psychology that some of his utterances and the reports of his "task forces" have created. Confidence is necessary for business planning and also for individual buying. People save their money and begin to do without things when they read about an unemployment cycle that some politicians have openly been saying will grow worse and worse.

It's a time to rebuild confidence, and the president of the United States, through his press conferences on television and his messages to the congress, could place more emphasis on the very large part of the economy that is functioning normally and on the improvements in the business situation that are already beginning to appear. The truth about business conditions is essential because untruths are soon discovered, but there is no sound reason to conceal the good when talking about the bad in our national economy today.

$63 Million Asked for Institution Building More Tax Funds, Added Bonding Foreseen in Commission's Budget

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Describing construction needs in urgent terms, the state Building Commission has transmitted to the Legislature a request for the financing of a $63-million state institution expansion and replacement program for the next two years.

The building budget contemplates a larger appropriation of tax funds from the state general treasury and an expansion of the bonding through the state building corporation device.

The program would embrace 23

major construction projects at state colleges, the University of Wisconsin and within the Department of Public Welfare system, including a new infirmary for older patients at the Winnebago State Hospital and a new science building at the state college in Oshkosh.

Deferred for Years
The planned expenditure is at a considerably higher rate than the Legislature has approved in recent years, but the law-makers are warned that the exploding enrollment rate at the educational institutions must be anticipated by new space authorizations now, or there will be a danger of turning away students later in the decade.

Some of the welfare structures scheduled for high priority attention are those that have been deferred for years, in spite of the anxious pleas of the welfare department officials.

The infirmary construction at the state hospital at Oshkosh, for example, would be devoted to cases presenting geriatric problems, which will grow more numerous as the population of the state continues to age.

The proposal is for an increase of the direct tax fund appropriation for building during the next of enabling legislation yet concretely offered in the form of a bill. It would enable any county of the state, learned enough

Rules Committee Vote One of Many Battles

Narrow Victory Beginning of Campaign
For Congressional Support for Kennedy

BY JOSEPH ALSOP
WASHINGTON—By all the signs, the White House regards the narrow victory in the vote to liberalize the House Rules Committee as only the beginning of a long, inevitably bloody campaign for dependable congressional support for the Kennedy administration. This means that the long established Republican-Southern Democratic coalition is going to have to withstand a sustained assault of a type the coalition leaders have never experienced. The form can be guessed from the intensity of the effort that produced the coalition's recent defeat. This was without any real precedent since the titanic struggles to enact Franklin D. Roosevelt's great pre-war measures, like the draft extension bill which passed the House by a single vote in 1941. The real effort began in the middle of last week, when veteran Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn realized he did not have the votes to regain control of the Rules Committee by enlarging it. By then, it was almost too late. Stick in Pocket House Republican Leader Charles Halleck had long since taken the precaution of putting the big stick of committee assignments for new members in his back pocket, until the votes could be counted. Wily old Rules Committee Chairman Howard K. Smith, Virginia, the arch-conservative of the house Democrats, had also prudently persuaded most of his southerners to commit themselves publicly, in ringing statements to their home town papers. But Rayburn had yet to call the big battalions of the White House into the fray. On call, they plunged into the fray with startling vigor. In the first phase, the president's congressional liaison man, Lawrence O'Brien, and his political secretary, Kenneth O'Donnell, got their baptism of fire. But even after O'Brien and O'Donnell had used all the new counts in this closely divided Congress, right-voting Republicans like these will be generously en-

Alsop

Richard Bolling, Missouri and Frank Thompson Jr., New Jersey, still were fearful of the outcome. Defeat still was expected as late as Sunday, in fact. Outside Support On the Monday before the vote, therefore, the president himself, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, and Attorney General Robert Kennedy all took the field in support of the speaker. The old device of the presidential telephone call was used once again—after how long an interval!—once without success in the case of Rep. Harold Cooley, North Carolina, but with success as well. In addition, outside support of all sorts was successfully mobilized, sometimes from unexpected sources. For example, four Republican Senators, John S. Cooper, Kentucky, Clifford Case, New Jersey, Jacob Javits, New York, and Hugh Scott, Pennsylvania, brought members from their states to vote with Speaker Rayburn instead of Republican boss Halleck. And so, in the end, the veteran speaker won his victory by five recorded votes, with six more votes on call if he really needed them. The pattern of this victory dictates the kind of campaign that the democratic congressional leadership and the White House are now jointly beginning. There were twenty-two Republicans who voted with Rayburn. Since every vote counts in this closely divided Congress, right-voting Republicans like these will be generously encourage, in the usual ways, by the Democratic administration. Votes Against More important, there were sixty-two House members from the old states of the Confederacy who voted against Rayburn. At least 40 of these, and probably 45, constitute a hard core of men who cannot be talked to. But the rest can perhaps be talked to. Winning the maximum number in this group is the main objective of the new campaign. State by southern state, all the members who voted with Rayburn (rare as hen's teeth except in Texas, Alabama, and Louisiana) and all those who now want to make their peace with the White House, will find all doors opening to them, all good things available to them. The members of the opposite persuasion will instead be met with chilly, unfruitful politeness. The methodical organization of the new campaign is distinctly impressive. Not only Cabinet members and heads of agencies are to be warned to be discriminating in the persons they do business with. Personnel directors, and other officials congressmen and senators must also approach on business, are to get the word too. When playing politics, in short, the Kennedy administration plays for keeps. There will be outraged cries, no doubt, since Washington has half-forgotten what it is like to have an active political leader in-

Date Pudding Fine Dessert for Winter Meals

Steamed Date Pudding makes an excellent cold weather dessert. It is hearty, sweet with chopped dates and makes a fitting finale to a meal. The pudding may be served hot or cold, making it possible to prepare it a day ahead of time when a busy schedule demands. Steamed Date Pudding 1½ cups sifted flour 3 teaspoons baking powder ½ teaspoon salt ¼ cup shortening ½ cup sugar 1 egg 1 teaspoon vanilla 2 teaspoons grated orange rind Two-thirds cup milk 1 cup chopped dates Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Cream shortening and sugar; beat in egg thoroughly with electric mixer or beat egg until thick with hand rotary beater and add. Beat in vanilla and orange rind. Stir in sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk just until smooth; fold in dates. # 1 Taxpayer Able To Tie Up City, Attorney Advises

Could Force New Election District Lines to be Made

MENASHA — City Atty. Richard J. Steffens Tuesday told the Menasha Common Council a single taxpayer could "tie up the city for a long time" if he chose to challenge the size of election districts.

That taxpayer, he pointed out, could petition Circuit Court, which immediately would order the City of Menasha to comply with state law on district sizes. The penalty for non-compliance would be jail terms for aldermen on contempt of court citations, he said.

Steffens commented that the city, and probably 90 per cent of the communities in Wisconsin, have been violating the law for years.

Provisions of Law

The law provides that no more than 600 votes may be cast in a single election district where printed ballots are used.

All of Menasha's election districts are in violation, he noted. To comply with the law, the city would need eight more voting precincts, for a total of 14. Installation of voting machines also would mean compliances without re-vamping district lines.

In Menasha, each ward except the Fourth is a complete precinct. The Fourth has two precincts.

New Wards Proposed

Because the law issue was raised by an article in Friday's Post-Crescent, aldermen favored delaying purchase of 54 new voting booths. Mayor John Klein said he would call the state prison workshop to ask that work on the new booths be delayed. They would not be needed if machines were purchased. More would be needed if the city gains election districts and continues to use ballots.

Klein said new ward lines have been proposed by a citizens' committee, which will affect voting districts.

Ald. William Zeininger said the law's being cited is "a revolting development. It looks as if some-

Bear Creek Starts Sewage Plant Plans

BEAR CREEK — The Village Board signed a contract Monday night with McMahon Engineering Co., Menasha, to conduct a survey and prepare an estimate of cost on installation of a sewage treatment plant in the village.

The McMahon firm also agreed to make an application to the federal government for a 30 per cent grant for the sewage treatment plant.

Lawrence Ellstead, Appleton, Junior Chamber of Commerce chairman for the Outstanding Young Farmer award, presents a plaque to 1961 winners Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Conradt, Shiocton. Conradt was honored at an awards program last night. He now will enter state competition.

Outstanding Young Farmer Jaycees Honor Clifford Conradt

A Shiocton farmer, Clifford Conradt and mechanized farm equipment, 34, was named Outstanding Young Farmer. His wife, Lorraine, takes care of the chicken enterprise which netted 5,378 dozen eggs in 1960. Chairman of the award program, Ralph Gehring, Shiocton, presented the winning farm of beef cattle, 130 hogs and gram presented the winning farm of 275 chickens. was chosen from a field of 36 entries.

Two other finalists were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Srey, Horton, and Mr. and Mrs. Myron George, Van De Walle, Seymour. Conradt now will be judged on the state level with the winner announced at the contest in Chippewa Falls Feb. 17 and 18.

Conradt started farming by himself in 1952 after he took over the farm from his father. He has invested $5,000 to $6,000 a year over an eight-year period in tractor and mechanized farm equipment and industry through increased sales, jobs and better foodstuffs, he added.

One out of every 10 persons in America make their living on a farm or from a farm oriented job. Powers said. In Russia five of every 10 persons is employed in agriculture. Still, he continued, with all these people in farming, Russia and China are experiencing famine and food shortages. This stands as a testimonial to American agriculture and the efficiency of its operation.

Judging the contestants were Oliver Lerum, Seymour; Joseph Rickert, County ASC office manager; William Tubbs, Seymour; George Miller, Shiocton, and Bert Weyenberg, Appleton.

The Rev. E. J. O'Donnell, second from right, president of Marquette University and speaker at the joint Appleton Chamber of Commerce—service clubs meeting Tuesday, talks to representatives of the groups. From left with Father O'Donnell are John Conway, Chamber of Commerce president; Otto Hansen, meeting chairman; and George Narovec, Lions Club member.

Kaukauna Council Hears Plans for Shopping Center

Planning Commission Will Make Study, Recommendation

KAUKAUNA — The common council Tuesday night heard about preliminary plans for a neighborhood shopping center to be built by the Retail Development Corp., if zoning changes and certain restrictions on property use are made.

The corporation, through Richard, Matilda and Joseph Lehrer, indicated a neighborhood shopping center was being considered on Highway 35 between the proposed 20th Street and the south city limits.

The corporation asked for deletion of the proposed extension of Lehrer Lane from the city map, a change in some zoning from residential to business, permitting paint or hardware stores in a local shopping district and a change in some lot line requirements. The matter was referred to the planning commission for study and recommendation.

School Problem

Council members agreed to meet with the board of education at 7 p.m. Feb. 15 to discuss plans for school construction. The groups will discuss location of the school, type of school and financing.

Members voted to incorporate state statutes into the city code of ordinances except for penalties. They included statutes on offenses to lives and persons, against public health and safety, against property and against morality. City ordinances generally are patterned after state statutes, but some changes are needed to keep the ordinances up to date.

Merchants to Hold $$$ Days In Twin Cities

Thursday, Friday and Saturday have been designated as dollar days in Neenah-Menasha by the Retail Service Council of the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce.

About 50 retail and service trade centers in the Twin Cities are expected to participate.

The idea of dollar days in Wisconsin cities originated in the Twin Cities in the early 1920s.

Council approved acceptance of the D.S.K. Plat and the Jones-Biese plat subject to compliance with local and state ordinances and approval of the city engineer.

Study Court Program

Oscar T. Jahns, justice of the peace, reminded aldermen of the state law which will establish a municipal justice of the peace effective Jan. 1962 which calls for the justice to receive a salary rather than fees. He asked aldermen to take necessary steps to comply with the state law. The matter was referred to a joint meeting of the finance, legislative, public protection and safety committees and the city attorney.

The legislative committee and health and recommendation committee were authorized to meet with the city attorney to set up an ordinance on keeping of fowl and pets in the community and to establish enforcement plans for regulations governing conduct on ice rinks.

A letter from the Chamber of Commerce praising firemen, police and city workers for their efforts in the major business district fire recently was received and placed on file after the mayor and aldermen voiced praise for the work of these men in controlling the blaze.

The planning commission was authorized to set up an orderly procedure for annexation of outside areas. The police lieutenant was authorized to attend a 3-day juvenile officers' school at Green Bay.

Aldermen approved the purchase of 30 un assembled picnic tables for use in city parks and three kiddie playground whirls, total cost of all items about $425.

Applicants to Be Interviewed For Welfare Post

Eleven applications have been received for the post of public assistance director in Appleton.

The council's welfare and ordinance committee reviewed the applications Tuesday, and will send letters to applicants inviting them in for personal interviews Monday starting at 7 p.m.

Deadline for applying for the job was 5 p.m. Tuesday.

Six of the applicants are from Appleton and five from out of town. Most of those from outside the city came from Milwaukee.

A new director is being sought for because Melville Flagstad, present director, has resigned effective March 1. He will become administrator of Peabody Manor, a home for the aged.

The committee approved ordinance hiking parking meter rates on off-street lots, on College Ave. from one for one block north and south of College Avenue on inter-sec-tion of Walnut to Sturgeon Bay, requested a one-Durkee Streets. Rates on streets would go from five cents for one hour to five cents for a half hour. Lots that are now five cents for two hours would go to five cents for one hour.

The ordinances will be given first reading at the Feb. 15 council meeting and come up for passage at the March 1 meeting.

Washington Street Extension Sought

Committee Asks Prompt Action To Acquire Necessary Property

A recommendation that work start immediately to extend W. Washington Street from Division to Richmond Streets was made Tuesday by the public safety committee.

The committee wants the street to go over the Chicago North Western Railroad tracks instead of under it.

City engineers have prepared several preliminary sketches on how the street could be extended, with one showing the street going under the tracks.

Committeemen asked that the board of public works begin negotiations immediately to acquire the property needed to extend the street.

An appraisal by the Appleton Board of Realtors says the land would cost the city slightly more than $100,000. Some homes are involved.

Ramp Recommended

Discussion of extending the street has been going on for some months, to alleviate traffic flow congestion downtown. If Washington becomes a through street it is believed a great deal of west bound traffic will use it, relieving some of the congestion on College Avenue.

Washington would have to curve northward around the water tower. It has been suggested the curve carry Washington northwest to meet Franklin Street at N. State Street.

The committee also recommended building a parking ramp on the two lots on the southwest and southeast corners of Division and Washington Streets.

If Washington Street were extended, part of the present free lot at the water tower would be lost.

In other action, the committee changed the wording of the fire department vacation schedule. Wherever it says five working days vacation for a certain number of years service, the new wording would read one calendar week.

Traffic Study

A copy of the Barton Traffic Study will be sent to Byron Wilson, Madison, traffic engineer for the Wisconsin Division of the

ciates, Inc. He will speak on "Using Psychological Tests in Making Management Decisions."

Johnson, Appleton YMCA; Daniel Kuehl, Home Mutuals Insurance; Boyd Payne, Kimberly - Clark Corp.; William Siskman, Appleton Coated Paper Co.; Lloyd Taylor, Combined Locks Paper Co.; and Richard Van Sistine, Wisconsin Telephone Co.

Man Fined $200 For Failing to File State Taxes

Four men were arraigned before Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiege Tuesday on charges of failing or refusing to file state income tax returns.

Albert J. Stilp, 47, 608 N. Superior St. was fined $100 each for failing to file and was placed on one year probation to the state department of public welfare for a third count. He must also pay the back taxes. Aelred J. Garot, 55, Green Bay, pleaded innocent to three counts and was released on $200 bond. Trial will be Tuesday.

Thomas Birch, 42, 816 E. South St., and Gabriel R. Egeland, 45, Durkee Streets, Rates on streets would go from five cents for one hour to five cents for a half hour. Lots that are now five cents for two hours would go to five cents for one hour.

The cases are being heard in Outagamie County because Appleton is the headquarters of the fourth tax district.

Businessmen Asked To Aid Education

Little Chute Sets Up First Library Board

Member Says Drive For Funds Can Now Be Initiated

LITTLE CHUTE — The first library board in the village's history was appointed by President Paul Kostka at the village board meeting Tuesday.

Named to the board were Mrs. Robert T. Evers, Mrs. William Van Offeren and Mrs. Larry McMahon. Trustee Frank Hermesen Jr. was named as the village board's representative on the group.

Work toward getting a library for the village has been spearheaded by the Parent Teacher Association of the State Graded School.

Fund Raising

With the appointment of the library board, Mrs. Evers said, it will be possible for the group to begin a fund raising campaign to finance the library. The village has made no direct appropriation for a library. The local Kiwanis Club has indicated an interest in the project.

In other action, the board approved the hiring of two women crossing guards to assist with handling traffic before and after school. The guards have been working for the past two weeks and have been a big help to the police department, the police and fire committee report said.

Approval was given for the new street grades submitted for the

Give Community Leadership, Rev. E. J. O'Donnell, President Of Marquette, Tells C of C, Clubs

Businessmen were called on to be leaders in education as well as in their own work by the Rev. Edward J. O'Donnell, president of Marquette University, speaker at a joint meeting of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce and service clubs Tuesday.

The Chamber of Commerce reported an attendance of 287, second highest since joint meetings have been held.

Father O'Donnell, speaking on "Higher Education in the Dynamic Decade," called leadership, which must be developed at least in part by colleges and universities, "the greatest need America has today."

Institutions of higher education in turn must be aided by business and professional men. "If larger numbers of them were better informed, more inspired and more committed to the objectives and needs of our colleges and universities, higher education in this country would make more rapid strides," he said.

Need for Excellence

The need for leadership is a need for "genuine excellence," Father O'Donnell said. Comparing our society with Russia, where education has been made the prime interest and activity of the state, he credited the progress in the Communistic youth campaign to a "real if one-sided pursuit of excellence."

"It is not comforting to reflect on Russia's success," he added. Speaking of the dynamic decade before us, the educator called this present world formidable and frightening. "It is a new world because a new mentality has been introduced into it," he said, noting the scientific discoveries, new plateau of living and chaotic changes which have come with this new mentality.

No Assessments For Repairing City Streets

Menasha Council Asks Ordinance to Set Procedure

MENASHA — Street repair costs will not be charged against abutting properties, the Menasha council decided yesterday by unanimous vote.

On Ald. Louis Gammey's motion, City Atty. Richard J. Steffens was directed to draft an ordinance providing that repair and maintenance of existing roads would be on a non - assessable basis.

The ordinance would not include building new roads or installing concrete or blacktop pavement where none had been laid before.

Gammey suggested an ordinance would be needed for street work in newly annexed areas.

The matter has been discussed many times in the last six months by aldermen, who have encountered strong citizen protest over their special assessment bills for street sealing.

The assessment policy was enacted in 1957 to help the city save money.

Christmas Seal Drives Get $13,000

Receipts of nearly $13,000 for Christmas seals have been reported by Fox Cities anti-tuberculosis organizations.

Appleton Area Tuberculosis and Health Association reports donations of $9,532 from Appleton, Little Chute, Kimberly, Combined Locks, Greenville and Kaukauna. This is low considering that Kaukauna was included in the Appleton area drive for the first time this year, said Miss Stell Brandt, president. Receipts for the year ending March 31, 1960, totaled $8,699.

Neenah Health Council reported $4,065 has been received in response to 5,545 letters enclosing Christmas seals mailed the first week in December.

Christmas seal sales support mobile X-ray units, tuberculosis tests and research.

Christmas Seal Drives Get $13,000

New Commitment

The state of the world today calls for "a new intellectual commitment and a new spiritual dedication," Father O'Donnell said. Students must accept this commitment, and schools must teach it.

However, more than student efforts are needed for highest achievement, and the "wider view of higher education and its importance" can be contributed by community leaders.

The worth of the individual is vital to society, and help is needed to develop this worth in American youth to build a greater America, he concluded.

Sentences Oshkosh Man for Bogus Checks

OSHKOSH — Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane, this morning sentenced Ralph Hoeft, 27, 1302 N. Main St., Oshkosh, to not more than a year at the State Reformatory, Green Bay, for check forgery. Hoeft admitted last Friday forging an $85 check which he cashed at an Oshkosh bank.

Order of St. Norbert To Hold Joint Meeting

No Beer in Grocery Stores, Says Council

Menasha Alderman Makes Oshkosh Try Since Fall, 1960, to Rescind Ordinance

MENASHA — Selling beer in grocery stores was defeated again Tuesday, the second time since last fall. The vote by Menasha aldermen was 6-3.

Ald. John Gollner moved to rescind the ordinance prohibiting beer sales in food markets, with the stipulation that no one under be allowed to purchase beer.

Gollner said the only objection he had heard was that young people in 18 to 20 could buy beer, since Robert Sullivan, Against it were the minimum beer purchasing age in Menasha is 18.

After his motion was seconded by Ald. Louis Gammey, Gollner's motion was defeated.

Professor's Seventh Book To be Printed

Faulkner's Trilogy Criticized in Work Of Lawrence Teacher

A seventh book by Dr. Warren Beck, professor of English at Lawrence College, will be brought out by the University of Wisconsin Press in October.

The author of three novels and three collections of short stories, Professor Beck has turned to literary criticism for his seventh major work, "Man in Motion: Faulkner's Trilogy."

The book is a study of the themes, patterns and art of the trilogy in Faulkner's writing, which began with "The Hamlet" in 1940, was continued in "The Town" in 1957 and was completed in "The Mansion" in 1959. The whole bore the title "Snopes."

Beck began work on his critique of the trilogy during a semester's leave of absence from the Lawrence classroom in 1959 and continued it last summer. A portion of the analysis, in simpler form, appeared in the spring 1960, issue of the Virginia Quarterly Review, under the title "Faulkner in the Mansion."

The book continues Professor Beck's studies in Faulkner begun 20 years ago, at which time he published a series of essays on Faulkner's point of view, his relation to the South and his style. They were some of the earliest critical works to appear in praise of Faulkner and have since been reprinted in anthologies of Faulkner criticism, including two in France.

On Anthologies

Beck's novels are "Final Score" which won the Friends of American Writers prize in 1945, "Pause Under the Sky" and "Into Thin Air." All were brought out in England as well as America. His three books of short stories, published by the Antioch Press were: "The Blue Sash," "The First Fish" and "The Far Whistle."

Beck's short stories have found

GOOD ☐ BAD ☐

Indeed it does. The speech of the neurotic is more likely to be self centered. "This is what I think, or feel." He is an "I" specialist. A second way he gives himself away is vagueness. Others are not quite sure what he is talking about. His conversation shifts from one topic to another seemingly without his being aware of it. Watch not only others but yourself for such tendencies.

Are most people financially unhappy?
Yes— No—

No. According to one study that sampled two thirds of our people, most people are pretty well satisfied economically. They know that as Americans they enjoy the highest standard of living in the world. They are not quite sure how this came about, but they don't want anything to happen to it. Among other things, they feel confident that it has been a result of big business.

Older relatives need to be kept busy!

Good. There is no substitute for

The able-bodied adult who does nothing but stay home all day, day after day, is likely to be hard to live with sooner or later. Seek New Name
For County Home

OSHKOSH—A new name is being sought for the Winnebago County Home for the Retired by the institutions committee of the county board.

For example, Fond du Lac calls its county home "Rolling Meadows" and the tuberculosis sanatorium is named "Sunny View."

That is the type of name the committee would like.

Suggestions may be made to Mrs. Virginia Nolan, chairman, Oshkosh, Robert Skalmoski, Oliver Thomsen and Reinhold Grunski, all of Neenah, and William Kelsh, Oshkosh.

Elimination Of Park Beer Rule Opposed

Little Chute Law Tabled For More Intensive Study

LITTLE CHUTE — Elimination of an ordinance requiring a permit to bring beer or ale into Doyle Park ran into opposition at the village board meeting Tuesday.

After some discussion a motion to table the ordinance until further study could be made was adopted.

The ordinance required that persons wishing to bring beer or ale into the park would first have to get a free permit from the local police.

No Liquor

The ordinance also states that no liquor of any kind, except beer or ale, would be allowed in the park at any time. Beer or ale can not be in glass containers.

Opposition came when Trustee Richard Ebben asked whether tourists would first be required to get a permit if they stopped at the park and had beer with them.

Ebben also maintained that the permit requirement was a hardship for local residents who go to the park for their evening meal in the summer.

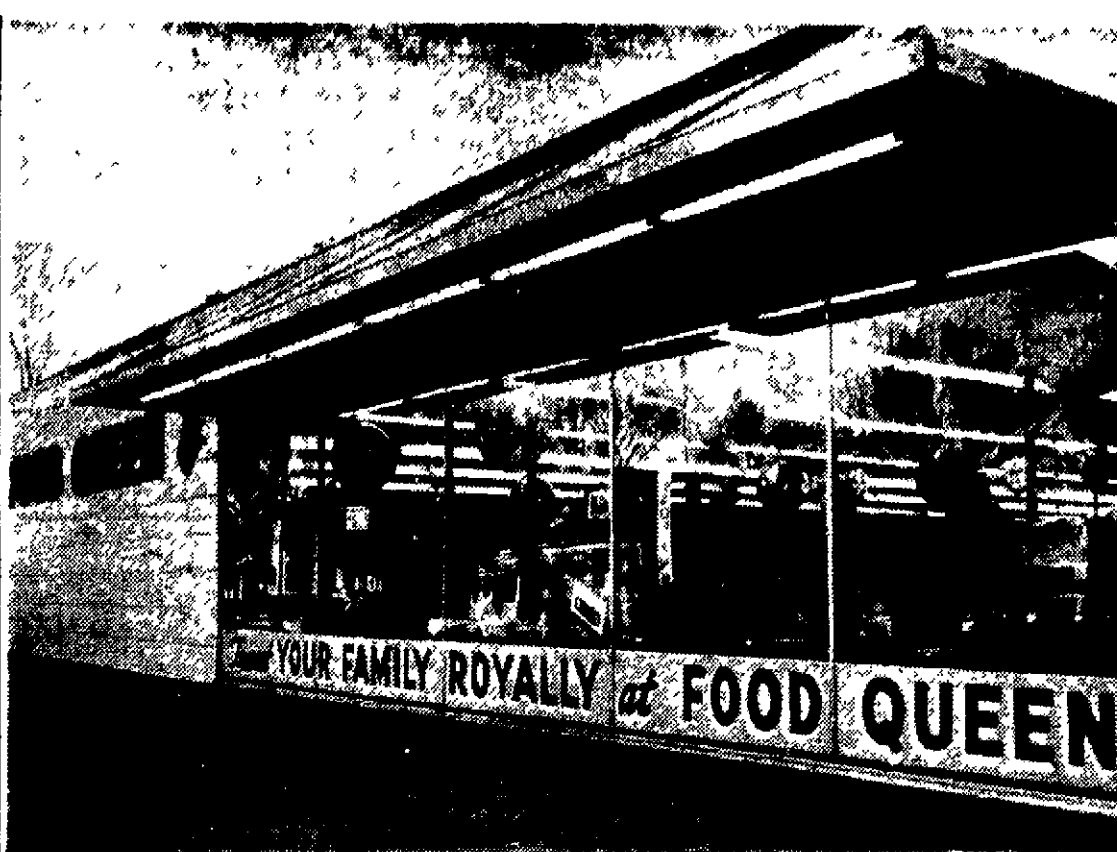

The ordinance committee reported that it was not the idea of the ordinance to impose any hardships on the public but it felt the permit was necessary. Committee head Robert Vanden Boogart explained that the permit system was suggested by the police department after a study was made on how other area communities handle the situation.

Group Parties

Vanden Boogart explained that issuing a permit, the police would have an idea of who was using the park and would have a means of checking back when something was out of order. It was pointed out that the permits were primarily aimed at group parties held at night.

The committee agreed to study the ordinance at a committee of the whole meeting and present it to the board at a later date.

A second ordinance giving utility companies the right to trim trees along power lines in the village was adopted. The ordinance states that it is not necessary for the utility to get the permission of the abutting property owner before doing tree trimming work.

Reelect Menasha Man Ask Immediate Dairy Operators Head Extension of Washington St.

Hugh Gear, Sr., Has Lead Winnebago County Organization Since 1940

WINCHESTER — Hugh Gear Sr., Menasha, was reelected president of the Dairy Plant Operators Association of Winnebago County at a board meeting which followed the association's annual dinner meeting near here last night.

Gear

He has headed the organization since its beginning in 1940.

Reelected also was John Schaefer, route 1, Neenah, vice president. Richard Aarnes, Oshkosh, was reappointed secretary-treasurer.

Named directors are Paul Timm, Oshkosh, Irwin Schueler, Larsen, both reelected, LaVern Swenson, Koro, and Gomer Williams, Oshkosh. Williams succeeds the late Charles Winters, Clayton, and Swenson will fill the two years left in the term of Alfred Krueger, Koro, who resigned.

Fallout Shelter

The association voted not to sponsor a dairy-rama this year but gave thought to displaying a model atomic fallout shelter at the county fair. This shelter also would display dairy products usable for emergency rations. A dairy queen contest and an Adult managed milking contest at the fair are being considered.

New requirements for dairy farmers and milk processors were outlined by Myron Dean, University of Wisconsin extension specialist for the food and dairy industry.

By Jan. 1, 1963, Dean said, dairy plants will have to enclose places for cleaning bulk trucks. These places must be heated and have hot water under pressure. By Jan. 1, 1962, all dairy plants must have inside toilets and dressing rooms under the new regulations.

Zimmerman has served as Secretary of State since 1956. Prior to that he had served as deputy secretary of state for 15 years between 1939 and 1956.

American Automotive Association. The committee wants Wilson to make recommendations on traffic flow problems in Appleton. The AAA provides this service free, committeemen were told.

A new lease with the Appleton Rifle and Pistol Club was approved. The city pays the club $100 for use of its facilities by policemen for practice and meets. The new lease was requested so the city would have first chance to buy the facilities should the club ever decide to sell.

The old lease could have been terminated by either party on 60 days notice. But the city has spent several thousand dollars at the club to improve the driveway, parking lot and for new equipment. Aldermen felt the city should have first chance to buy it to protect city's investment.

Committeemen recommended accepting the low bid of Malofsky Motor Co for four new police cars. Net price of the four cars after trade-ins and deductions of taxes is $6,444.70. There were three other bids.

The police chief's request to hire a parttime janitor at $1.45 an hour was approved.

be at 7 p.m. Thursday at Whiting Boat House.

Terms of two directors and two committeemen expire. They are Harold Urban, director at large, and W. R. Fahrbach, treasurer, and manager, Harold Vandenberg and Donald Schmidt, committeemen.

Edward Muehlenberg, Wisconsin Credit Union League representative, will be the speaker. Committee reports will be given.

Freedom Road from Highway 41 to the village limits. The grades now will be presented to the Outagamie County Board for approval, since the road is a county trunk.

Welcome Signs

A pair of roadway signs reading "Welcome to Little Chute" were donated to the village board by the Boy Scouts. The clerk-treasurer was instructed to send a letter of thanks to the Scouts for the good-will gesture.

A letter was received from the village of Kaukauna, thanking the village for the use of some of its fire fighting equipment in the disastrous fire there three weeks ago. The Little Chute rescue unit and lighting equipment was on the scene for over six hours.

Annual Report

Fire Chief Les Sanders gave his annual report, which showed that there were 35 calls of all types during the year and firemen spent 910 man hours on call and at meetings. Insurance underwriters reported 37 fires in the village to which the department was not called. These amounted to $1,010 in damage while fires to which the department was called caused $4,021 in damage.

Approval was given for the transfer of $10,299.76 from the water department account to the general fund. Part of the amount represents a loan to the water department.

Purchase of a chain saw to facilitate the Dutch Elm control program was approved. The unit will cost $241.10.

New Proposal To Increase Patrol Powers

MADISON (AP)—Another proposal to increase arrest powers of members of the State Traffic Patrol was introduced in the Assembly today by Frank Nikolay, D-Abbotsford.

The measure is more far-reaching than a bill turned down by the Legislative Council last week because it would not restrict arrest powers to highways.

If passed, the bill would allow a state patrolman on duty to arrest without a warrant fugitives or persons suspected of committing a crime. Patrolmen now can arrest for traffic violations only.

Among those who have registered strong protests to any increase in State Patrol arrest powers are local law enforcement groups and the state AFL-CIO executive council.

Assemblyman Alexander Grant, R-Green Bay, introduced a bill to restrict drivers between 16 and 18 years of age to daylight driving. The measure would permit a judge to extend driving privileges to night hours in special cases.

Proposals to amend the constitution to elect the secretary of state, attorney general and state treasurer for four-year terms were introduced by Michael Barron, D-Milwaukee. Legislation was introduced earlier to make the offices appointive by the governor. Assemblymen Sherman, Sobocinski, D-Milwaukee, and Merrill Stalbaum, R-Racine, introduced a measure to provide that local government units withdrawing from jurisdiction of a regional planning commission shall not be required to contribute to the commission's budget.

Car Strikes Utility Pole, Parked Auto

MENASHA — Mrs. Olive J. Grieshaber, 709 5th St., Menasha, received a cut lip and was advised to see her physician when the car she was driving went off State 47 in the Town of Menasha and struck a parked car in the Highway Auto Sales used car lot at 1:49 a.m. today.

She said she was headed south and had just made the curve when she may have fallen asleep. The car struck a utility pole before hitting the parked car.

She was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Milwaukee and St. Louis University High School in St. Louis.

State High Court Upholds Arps Ruling

Did Not Err in Jury Instruction, Motion Denial

OSHKOSH — Circuit Judge H. F. Arps Tuesday was upheld by the Wisconsin Supreme Court for his decisions in the personal injury suit brought by Frank and Esther Mondl of Oshkosh against the F. W. Woolworth Co. store of Oshkosh.

Mrs. Mondl brought suit after falling in the store Jan. 24, 1959. A circuit court jury last May ruled she was 55 per cent negligent and the store 45 per cent negligent. The jury said the store was negligent as to maintaining the floor and that negligence caused Mrs. Mondl to fall. The jury also said Mrs. Mondl was negligent as to lookout and this also led her to fall.

Mrs. Mondl and her husband appealed the jury's decision on two questions. First was whether the court erred in its instructions to the jury and second was whether the judge erred in denying a motion for a new trial because of alleged improper instructions. Mrs. Mondl claimed the floor was wet because of snow being tracked into the store from the outside.

Recession Close To Bottoming Out

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The 1960-61 recession must bottom out within the next 90 to 120 days, or our country will be in serious economic trouble.

The recession will bottom out in these weeks, according to a rising number of the most informed economists in Washington and Wall Street. Our country will not be in serious economic trouble.

The turn is coming. One of the mildest business downturns of modern times is nearing its end. Sooner than most of you probably think, the challenge facing us will be creating a sufficiently powerful upturn instead of preventing a snowballing recession. These judgments are not being publicized in Washington. On the contrary, the government's emphasis is properly on essential actions to aid our millions of unemployed and to give the economy stimulants that will help make the judgments accurate.

Clear Upswing But in my recent conversations with men who have enviable records for correct business forecasts, I've noticed a clear upswing in confidence that a change now is in the making—and these men are acutely sensitive to changes in our economy's direction.

I've not been able to report this level of confidence in more than a year. In fact, the attitude wasn't apparent even a few months ago. What is behind the more cheerful appraisals? Significantly, the increasing confidence appears based more on "feeling"—on the psychology of the expert and what he believes is the psychology of others—than on actual statistics indicating an approaching bottom. There is a feeling, for instance, that the long period of inventory-cutting by businessmen will be over in the near future — and inventory cutting has been a key force in the 1960-61 downturn. Many corporations are reporting that they've reduced goods on their shelves and in their warehouses about as low as they can manage without interfering with smooth operations. Many say that if demands perk up even moderately, they'll have to switch to rebuilding inventories. If businessmen just switch from slashing inventories to maintaining them, the economy will get a multi-billion dollar lift.

Immediate Impact There is a feeling that government spending will have a more immediate impact than believed likely a while ago. Government contracts already have risen sharply, the new jobs and payrolls are on their way.

There is a feeling that the stock market's rebound is sending a message about the economy which will be confirmed later by the statistics. The stock market's upturn is anticipating a mild, short recession, and by anticipating this, the stock market may be helping to make the anticipations become reality.

There is a feeling that the housing industry will respond to the dual props of more available mortgage money and cheaper mortgage money. Meanwhile, the trend of construction of commercial buildings, factories, highways, schools, etc., is upward and is a plus factor.

There is a feeling that consumer spending remarkably firm all along will increase in the spring, and it wouldn't take much of a pickup in consumer demand to force businessmen to buy to restock their shelves.

There is a feeling that the pace of the downturn has been slowing—even in the face of soaring unemployment. The "leading indicators" of the economy aren't as grim as they were in late 1960.

If the recession bottoms out this spring, it will have lasted about a year, will rank among the shortest declines of the post-World War I decades.

If the low point is near, it will mean this recession will rank among the mildest of modern times.

Both are good bets. (Copyright, 1961)

Fight Over Referendums Up to Senate

Withholding, Sales Tax Proposals
Taken to Floor

MADISON (AP)—Controversial proposals to put both the sales tax and withholding tax collection system questions to a vote of the people April 4 were withdrawn from a Senate committee today and placed on the calendar for floor consideration.

Sen. Chester Dempsey, R-Hartland, triggered the action with a floor speech in which he assailed Sen. Alfred Laun, R-Kiel, for "delaying tactics" on the sales tax referendum.

Dempsey and Sen. Reuben LaFave, R-Oconto, are co-authors of the proposal which would ask voters to decide whether enactment of a sales tax is necessary if the state requires additional revenue in the 1961-63 biennium.

Carried By 3 Votes
Laun heads the Senate Labor, Taxation, Insurance and Banking Committee, where the proposal has been held since introduction. He objected to Dempsey's suggestion that the resolution be withdrawn and placed on the calendar for floor consideration. Dempsey then moved the resolution be withdrawn and won his point in a 17-14 roll call vote.

In debate preceding the ballot, Laun said he favored holding the sales tax resolution until "we get all the tax measures before us." He also suggested that the number of referenda being proposed in this session indicated an unwillingness on the part of lawmakers to "make the big decisions."

Democrats wholeheartedly favored withdrawing the resolution from committee.

In one floor argument, Sen. Davis Donnelly, D-Eau Claire, called the entire discussion a "Republican bluff we're ready to call."

He said the sales tax issue would not come to a public vote this spring or two years from now and charged that Republicans "want to talk sales tax but won't do anything about it."

La Fave said he had heard criticism of the resolution because of its brevity. He told senators the brief question had been worded for clarity and described the resolution as a "simple one that voters can understand."

Immediately after the Senate's favorable action on withdrawal of the sales tax resolution Sen. Casimer Kendzioriski, D-Milwaukee, proposed a similar advancement for a public referendum resolution on the withholding plan for collecting taxes. He is author of the proposal. His move brought no debate and was approved in a 20-12 vote.

Delay Construction Of Menasha Park Shelter Building

MENASHA—Delay in constructing a comfort station and storage building in Garfield Park was ordered Monday by the Park and Recreation Board because of as yet unfinished plans to expand the sewage disposal plant.

The board decided to await final word from the Neenah-Menasha sewerage commission, which is under orders to expand the sewage plant by providing secondary treatment.

The park land is owned by the sewerage commission, which allows the City of Menasha to maintain a park with a small amount of play equipment. So far, no permanent installations have been allowed.

No permits will be issued for picnics until after the city council acts on the pending park use ordinance, the board decided.

A Light Plane Carrying four people struck a deer while landing at the New London air strip about 9 p.m. Tuesday. Paul Kamke Jr. was the pilot. The deer was killed but the plane was only slightly damaged. (Story on Page One).

Survey Replies Ask Crackdown For Safe Roads

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department said today its public opinion survey indicates citizens want the agency to crack down on traffic law violators.

The department said this was the consensus of more than 1,300 civic leaders replying to a recently distributed questionnaire. Drivers convicted of operating an automobile without a license should be given a minimum five-day jail sentence.

All motorists should be required to take an intoxication test at the request of an arresting officer. The State Patrol would be permitted to use airplanes to aid state traffic law enforcement.

The department also said 69 per cent of the replies favored enlargement of the State Patrol. The questionnaires were mailed to 5,000 persons, including legislators, school administrators, judges, county authorities, city and village police departments, county board chairmen, Newspaper editors, and radio and television station managers.

Kennedy Goal to Create 1 Million New Jobs, Secretary of Labor Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg says a goal of the Kennedy administration is to create a million new jobs a year beyond the number necessary to erase current unemployment.

This, he said, will provide jobs for both older and younger persons and offset unemployment created by automation. Goldberg said a full economy will be necessary to achieve this purpose, and a full economy is another of the administration's goals.

"We are going to call upon labor, management and the public to cooperate together with the government to try to arrive at a solution of automation and the other problems that confront us," he said.

Goldberg set forth these goals in a prerecorded interview aired today on the National Broadcasting Co. "Today" television program.

He said the administration also hopes to improve the quality and effectiveness of the unemployment services.

The secretary, noting that he was about to set out on a personal tour of high unemployment areas, asserted:

"There is no substitute for on-the-spot investigation to see what the facts are. We know the facts in a statistical way. I hope to see them in a humane way also."

James said David and three other boys were playing at the home of a 14-year-old boy, slug struck David in the back.

Fox Cities Area U. S. Tax Bill $119,082,938

Four Counties Have
7.1 Per Cent of
State Share of Load

The pocketbooks of Fox Cities area taxpayers will be $119,082,938 emptier when they hand over their share of the federal taxes to support former President Eisenhower's proposed $80,900,000,000 spending program.

Wisconsin's share of the federal tax bill is expected to be $1,674,630,000 for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

These estimates were released in Madison by Jack Fennema, president of the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce and vice president and treasurer of Rhineland Paper Co.

The Fox Cities area, including Outagamie, Waupaca, Winnebago and Calumet Counties, will carry about 7.1 per cent of the state's federal tax load. This percentage is based on the ratio of the state income tax collections for each county to total collections from all individuals and corporations in the state. The tax bill of the Fox Cities area compares with the $23,299,367 paid in property taxes in 1959.

County Figures
Outagamie County is expected to pay $46,052,325, or 2.75 per cent of the state's federal taxes. This compares with 1959 property tax collections in the county of $8,694,302. Waupaca County will pay $7,167,416 or .428 per cent. Property taxes there were $3,141,972. Winnebago County's share will be $60,102,470 or 3.569 per cent, and Calumet County's, $5,760,727 or .344 per cent. Property taxes collected in Winnebago County were $9,653,976 and in Calumet County, $1,809,117.

Further analysis by the state chamber revealed that Wisconsin's share of the proposed U.S. budget for the coming year is several times the cost of operating our own state and local governments for the fiscal year 1960. Compared to the state financial picture in 1960, the Wisconsin federal tax bill of $1.675 billions is:

1.86 times greater than all tax collections by the state, municipalities, counties and school districts in Wisconsin, which totaled $897,562,324.

3.74 times greater than the $447-

Five Youths Arraigned on Charges of Gasoline Theft

Five rural Seymour and West DePere youths were arraigned in Municipal Court today on charges of gas theft and disorderly conduct.

Robert Graves, 17, route 2, Seymour, is being held in Outagamie County jail pending payment of a $100 fine. He was sentenced to 40 days in jail or the fine by Judge Oscar J. Schmieg on a charge of stealing 60 gallons of gasoline from a storage tank in Black Creek owned by Glen Woodke, route 2, Seymour. Graves was also placed on one year probation.

Judge Schmieg ordered a presentence investigation on the same gasoline theft charge against Donald Stuckart, 17, Seymour, and Roland Ferron, 18, route 2, West DePere.

Episcopal Church Suit Contests Will Of Catholic Convert

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—The Episcopal Church has filed a suit here contesting a will by one of its longtime parishioners who bequeathed $260,000 to a Catholic nursing home.

The petition filed yesterday asserts that Mrs. Sylvia Ann Morgan, an Episcopalian for most of her active 93 years, "was not of sound mind" when she made out a new will after her conversion to Catholicism and shortly before her death last Dec. 30.

She didn't leave the Episcopal church a dime, the petition said, whereas three previous wills had earmarked some $500,000 to the Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church of New York.

The Little Sisters of the Poor, a Catholic nursing home for the aged in Oakland, is the beneficiary under the new will.

Man Apparently Was Buying Company of Beautiful Woman

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I went with this girl for two years. She is very beautiful and I considered myself lucky to have the pleasure of her company. I'm not very good-looking and I have a slight limp. My job paid well and I was generous with Lila. When she needed $250 to get her teeth fixed I gave her the money. Last year her brother got into a little trouble and I paid a lawyer $300 in advance to take the case. I bought her many nice gifts and helped with payments on her car.

The company I worked for went out of business and I've been without a job for almost six weeks. Lila has turned very cold. Last night she told me I'd better start going with other girls because we are incompatible. I had hoped one day we'd be married. What does this sound like to you?—Brushed Off

Dear Off: Take Lila's advice and start going with other girls. One who would drop you when the bedding got rough would make a poor wife.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago we moved to a lovely part of the United States. While some sections suffer from blizzards we have beautiful sunny weather. My husband has some relatives he hadn't seen in years. Three months after we moved here they wrote that they would like to visit us. This couple came with two small children and they stayed 17 days. We gave them the best bedroom in the house and knocked ourselves out entertaining them. When they left it was just as if they had never been here. They didn't even drop a card saying thank you for the nice time. Yesterday we received a letter saying they had been meaning to write but were busy. They want to visit us again around Easter. I feel we'd be fools to say yes. My husband says some people just aren't demonstrative and we shouldn't hold it against them because they didn't thank us last year. What do you say?—Doomed Relatives

Dear Relatives: There's a big difference between being demonstrative and displaying ordinary, every-day manners. People who don't have the courtesy to drop a line after accepting 17 days of bed and board don't deserve to be invited back. Write that you'd be happy to make reservations for them in a hotel if they will let you know what they want to spend.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Four years ago our daughter had a child out of wedlock. We are raising the girl as our own although everyone in town knows of her background. Next month we are moving to a distant city where we are not known. My husband says we should tell the truth because if the people in this town accepted us they will do so elsewhere. Furthermore he says someone who knows the story is bound to appear and then we will look like liars and fools. I say we should say nothing and let people assume the child is ours. After all this is nobody's business. What do you say?—Unsettled

Dear Unsettled: Of course it's nobody's business, but unfortunately, this is the type of business some people like best. Introduce the little girl as your granddaughter. No further explanation is necessary. For the child's sake you must not have two sets of stories afloat.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.) (Copyright, 1961)

When this hand was played, West thought only of his own hand. His mechanical opening lead of the fourth-best card in his own long suit made life easy for declarer.

Dummy won the first trick with the ace of hearts, and declarer promptly set to work on the diamonds. East shifted to spades on taking the ace of diamonds, but it was too late. South was ready to cash four diamonds, three hearts, one spade and two clubs.

West can defeat the contract by opening the deuce of spades instead of a low heart. The ace of spades is forced out at the first or second trick, and East gets in with the ace of diamonds in time to run the rest of the spades.

How can West tell that a spade lead is called for?

Doesn't Pay

The first principle is that it doesn't pay to set up a suit in an entryless hand. Even if West is lucky enough to set up his hearts fairly quickly he cannot expect to regain the lead to cash the hearts.

Since his own hand is hopeless, West should try to set up something for his partner. An unbid major suit is always a good shot. The theory is that the opponents will usually try for game in a major suit if they can: failure to make any such attempt indicates some shortness in one or both major suits.

Mind you, West can't be sure of defeating the contract by leading a spade. Some contracts are unbeatable. About all West can tell is that a spade lead is most likely to produce a good result.

Answer: Bid two hearts. Your partner may be in serious trouble at no trump, and you should be safer at your 3-card trump suit.

Most cereals double in quantity during cooking, so select a large saucepan at the start. Bring the water to a fast rolling boil over a high flame before adding the cereal. The rapid movement of the water prevents lumping. After the cereal is added, turn the flame back to simmer and cook according to the directions on the package. A tight fitting cover on the saucepan will prevent the formation of a crust on top of the cereal.

For the Window Over a Window Seat

The window over a window seat should the color be? There's a seat can be curtained as hand-green textured paper on the somely and as efficiently as any walls, and the rugs are brown, other, even if needs for privacy, and light make special demands. The problem-solving window styling sketched is in answer to Mrs. W. A., who writes, "Our neighbor's house is too close to ours, and has a window exactly opposite our window seat window. Some curtaining is needed in the daytime and more at night, but so far all I've done is to keep heavy curtains closed all the time so the room never gets enough outdoor light."

Cafe curtains uncover the top window glass to let sunshine in while they cover the lower window area. Then for nighttime curtaining, use the trick that works well for windows that aren't recessed. Mrs. A. To clear the rug on parquet floor is white with glass, install rods which extend beyond the actual windows to the curtains, drawn back, hang against the wall. Wall adjoining a recessed window is at right angles, but traverse rods can be made and rigged to open and close in the same way.

Mrs. W. W. "My two boys want to use an old office desk in their room, and since the desk is oak and the rest of the furniture is maple, it needs refinishing in the maple color or painting. Which would be better? If painting, what for contrast in this scheme."

Since the desk may be large and the room small, paint in a shade of green to blend the desk into the wall background is preferable. The bulk of the desk will seem to be less this way, and the room less crowded, than if the desk color strongly contrasted with the walls. Refinishing the desk in the maple color would also be difficult, and oak differs enough from maple so that even the same finish would not match the woods.

Mrs. L. G. L. "My problem is to find a color for chairs with an off-white soft, a dark color that won't soil as the white does. The walls are light gray-blue and the rug on parquet floor is white with metallic gold threads. What color do you suggest for the chairs?"

A grayed medium light color often shows soil less than a very dark one, and this would be particularly true of a medium gray-blue, which would do nicely for the chairs. You might also ask at the stores for upholstery fabrics for them which are especially treated to resist soil and wipe off with a damp cloth. If it isn't already there, introduce another color for contrast in this scheme.

SEAMS TO ME Questions On Sewing

By Patricia Scott

A little reminder: certain stitches are used specifically for various parts of a garment. When this stitch is recommended, no other stitch should be substituted.

Pat Scott

I read your column and find it most interesting and very informative. However, I haven't seen the answer to my question yet. I shortened a coat and took pains with the hem by using a slip-stitch. After pressing it I found a line was noticeable on the right side of the coat. Is there anything I can do to remedy this situation? Mrs. A. J. S.

A. Never, but never, slip-stitch a coat hem or any hem. Use the plain hemming stitch for regular hems and the catch-stitch for coat and suit hems. To do this, work from left to right, crossing threads at each stitch. Do not pull stitches too tight and be sure to catch only one thread on the coat. If you take too many threads on your needle and pull too tight it will certainly show on the right side. (See illustration.)

Q. I have a dress with set-in sleeves that I love and would like to know if it is possible to make the same dress sleeveless from the same pattern? Mrs. E. P.

A. Yes, with one little change. When you cut your pattern add 1/2 inch to the armhole at the underarm of both the front and back, making the armhole a little smaller. Without this, your armhole would be too large. Then, of course, you finish your armhole by cutting a 3-inch facing and applying it as always or using a bias strip.

Q. I'm what is probably called a complete novice in sewing. At the moment I'm making my third cotton dress and am tearing my hair out over something that has from France, as you might say, happened on all of them. The little white marking wax they sold me leaves a horrible greasy mark after I press my dress wherever it was marked. How can I get this off, or what else can I use? Miss D.B.

Cultivate, Don't Suppress, Youngster's Imagination

BY ANGELO PATRI

"Oh, he just imagined it." May-be he did but why the note of scorn in the statement? Children especially those under 10, are endowed with a high degree of imagination. The younger they are the richer the field of fancy. When the world of adults is too much for them, they create one for themselves where things are right for their needs.

This sometimes is made plain to their elders by the stories the little ones want to tell. They tend to make them big, strong and victorious and their elders, long since aware of the world as it is, are shocked by what they call exaggeration, or downright lying.

Imagination Valuable

We ought to step carefully here. All children want the approval of their elders and if their tall stories meet with stern orders to stop lying and tell the truth, they will soon stop bringing their stories to such an audience. That may not be as good as it appears. Imagination is a very valuable asset to its possessor. It is the creative writer's main source of power; the artist's great source of strength; the inventor's sole stimulant to adventurous performance. Of course, children must be taught to see the difference between what "is" and what "is not." They must be taught that there is a standard of truth that has to be recognized and dealt with if they are to live happily with themselves and others. But at the same time, they must be allowed freedom of imagination for their creative abilities.

Show No Anger

When a child tells a tall story, listen to the end and then say something to the effect that it was a good story and now can he tell what really happened? Perhaps a few well worded questions help here. Behave without a show of anger or dismay. Time usually discloses the facts if one is careful and patient under these conditions.

Praise any show of creative effort, i. e., the story a child writes, extemporaneous melody he plays instead of running the practice scale, the new design for a sweater or a dress. Do so even if the product distresses your conventional sense. Accept it as it is offered and later on, make the correct suggestion.

What is important is the cultivation of children's imagination and not its suppression.

Dr. R.M. Brace Tells Of Power Struggle

NEENAH—"The end of a European dominated world came about at the end of World War II," Dr. Richard M. Brace, professor of history at Northwestern University told the Woman's Tuesday Club yesterday afternoon at the Boys Brigade Building. "Following World War I the colonies were, to some extent, placed under mandates run by the mother country, but after 1945 the world was divided differently and the United States and Russia emerged as world powers. Each wanted control of the old world and this rivalry between two government powers gave these under-developed area opportunities for autonomy."

Dr. Brace pointed out that in 1945 there were four independent African states; in 1960 there were 26. This, he said, would not have been possible without the rivalry between the two systems.

Moslems and French
Algeria, a country about three times the size of Texas, has been occupied by the French since 1930, and since then has been sporadically beset by rebellion. With approximately 10 million Moslems and one million French, it is more comparable to the Union of South Africa than it is to the situation in the Congo. "Among these million people only 22 per cent are of French descent, but all of them are French citizens. This faction, called the 'Colones,' is not a solid bloc as many of them are Spanish and Dutch; the term itself means 'plantation holder' and this group has lived in Algeria a long time and 'built for themselves, but not for the Moslems,'" Brace said. "They say 'Algeria is France.'"

Great Poverty
Since 1954 the Moslems have wanted autonomy, Brace said, and although the European population is static, the Moslem population is growing fast and may possibly be doubled by 1980. Also, there is a great deal of poverty among them—many of them have a yearly income of less than $80. The Colones produce wine, rather than wheat and the Moslems' religion forbids the use of wine.

The Algerian nationalist leader Abaas served in the French Army in both wars and was trained as a pharmacist, but he is supported loyally in the guerilla warfare which is constantly going on.

Thrive on Fighting
"It doesn't seem possible that the French army cannot crush this group of freedom fighters," Dr. Brace said. "Today the French Army in Algeria is supposedly made up of 500,000 men, whereas the rebel strength is not more than 150,000; yet this group thrives on fighting, repression and adversity and of course there is general discontent because of six million hungry paupers. The villages from which men have gone to France to work and then returned, is where the trouble is the most intense."

"Although the French statutes of 1944 and 1947 gave these people more than they had before, the elections were constantly rigged and their promises were broken time after time."

Weakens NATO
Dr. Brace remarked that France has withdrawn a great many of her troops from NATO to send to Algeria and of course this is dangerous and weakens the NATO alliance.

"It is a dirty and bloody war," Brace said, "with French officers being sent to schools to learn how to torture." The Algerian nationalists claim they have lost 600,000 men but the French deny this. However, it is true, Brace believes, that the Algerians have lost 15 to one Frenchman. This includes civilians as well as soldiers.

Seek Human Rights
DeGaulle inherited a terrible problem, Brace said, because he did not move fast enough. He has promised the army that he will

"SEMI-FORMAL" AMBIGUOUS

I would like to know the proper dress to wear for a dance which is to be semi-formal. There has been a lot of controversy every time an invitation says "semi-formal". Some say the men are to wear suits and the women should wear dressy dresses. Others say that the men must wear navy blue and the women should wear cocktail dresses or short formals.

Louise Davis Answers:

I must admit that "semi-formal" is quite vague for no one knows exactly what it means. Interpretations often vary according to location and individual social groups. The combined word does imply flexibility. Generally it means that a man wears a conservative business suit (nothing "sporty"). It is utter nonsense to stipulate that he must wear navy blue. Semi-formal generally means that the women wear evening dress to a dance. They are apt to be anything from a formally designed cocktail type dress to a floor length bouffant gown.

IS R.S.V.P. NECESSARY?

Is it customary to include a R.S.V.P. on an invitation if a bride's mother wishes to know how many people will attend the reception? Or does one acknowledge even if there is no request for a reply?

Louise Davis Answers:

There is no need to acknowledge an invitation if there is no request. If a bride's mother wishes to know how many guests will attend the reception, it is customary that the invitations include a request for a reply.

Standards of Conformity Hamper Man's Freedom

BY JOY MILLER
NEW YORK (AP) — Men are always saying it's a woman's world. Some even sound as if they might believe it.
The truth is, says Emanuel Demby, president of Motivating Research Associates, we do have a double standard flourishing today that's loaded in favor of women.
Our culture, he explains, permits women fuller freedom in expressing their own images through the way they dress and behave socially. Men are hemmed in by certain standards of conformity created by films, television, radio, magazines and contemporary literature.
Demby uncovered the double standard during research for an over-all psychological and sociological exploration of anxiety and tensions among men. A part of the study, sponsored by a manufacturer of Safe-in-Suds sports shirts, has just been completed.
Double Standard
An illustration of the double standard lies in the sexes' psychology of shopping. Demby points out. "Men will buy because they need something; women because they want to feel like something."
It works like this:
The weather turns hot and a man needs a sports shirt. So he buys one—or about 80 per cent of the time, Demby found, he has his wife do it.
But a woman shops ahead for herself, in anticipation. She buys with the view in mind of what kind of person she will look like at a certain place—a demure matron at an afternoon function, a seductive siren at an evening party.
Her image is fragmented—she can be one thing today and another tomorrow—and she can pull it together any time she wants to.
But a man's image is a unit. He feels he's subject to criticism if he doesn't dress or act the way he thinks he's expected to, according to his position. Subconsciously, he believes he's expected not to relax the standards set for his type of work.
"A wife is aware of his unconscious self concept, and buys for the man she married, not for the vice president who comes home to her at night. She rehumanizes him," says Demby, gamely adding that men don't know nearly so much about women.
Trust Judgment
American men trust their wives' judgment in picking the correct image for them, and "we find women most often right," agrees Demby.
But the main reason for the shopping chore being foisted off onto the little lady is that a man would rather not suffer the anxiety of being seen selecting from the wide range of apparel—and the self concepts they represent—available on a counter. He would possibly be most attracted to a resplendent red and yellow plaid, but he wouldn't want anyone to see him buy it because he doubts it's the sort of shirt a big corporation executive would be expected to wear.
Research by Demby's staff of psychologists shows that sport shirt colors and patterns are an accurate barometer of a man's self concept. Sexually secure and masculine men (and Demby found through cross-section sampling that this takes on 65 per cent of American men) wear what he has dubbed the market center shirt—the middle range in color and pattern, neither exhibitionistic nor overly conservative. Less secure and boastfully masculine men (25 per cent) and sexually "hidden" and hostile men (10 per cent) tend toward loud, offbeat styles.
Early Start
As a result of the study, the sports shirt company is asking its retailers to start selling its ap-

Q. We recently had a puppy who died of hepatitis. How long shall we wait until we get a new puppy? Nancy Bethpage, Farmingdale, N. Y.
A. Often, the first question after the loss of a beloved dog is: When can we get a new puppy? When the dog has had distemper or hepatitis, I advise a thorough disinfecting of the house with any good household antiseptic. Burn, or thoroughly sterilize, all things which have been in intimate contact with your deceased friend. While distemper virus is usually spread through the air, the hepatitis virus is spread by contact with the excretions of the animal. If everything has been thoroughly cleaned, it is usually safe to bring a new dog into the house after 60 days. To make doubly sure, the new puppy should have a protective shot before coming into your house.

Moisture

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN
BROKEN THERMOPANE SEAL
Question: We have a thermopane picture window, installed ten years ago in a new home. The seal has broken and moisture formed between the two panes, giving it a dirty gray appearance. What can be done, if anything, to restore this glass to its former clearness? The guarantee has expired.
Answer: I am exceedingly sorry to tell that that once the seal is broken, there is nothing in the world that is going to prevent the condition you describe from developing. Nor is there any satisfactory repair short of replacing the unit.
Aluminum Foil Insulation
Question: Many contractors are using a heavy aluminum foil-type insulation in construction of new homes. I believe it is in roll-form and called reflective insulation. Is this insulation adequate in a new home.
Answer: The type of insulation which includes aluminum foil is just about as good as anything made. You can use it with complete confidence.
Peeling Tileboard Walls
Question: Our bathroom walls are tileboard with a masonite backing. The surface has cracked and is beginning to peel. Is there any way to refinish this by painting? Or must the board be replaced?
Answer: Certainly you can refinish the tileboard. First, it must be absolutely scoured clean of any soap film, dust, wax, etc. Spackle can then be used to fill the cracks. This is available at any hardware or paint store. Next step is to roughen the surface lightly with sandpaper, so as to give the finish coat of enamel a

SPILLED LINSEED OIL
Question: Linseed oil was spilled on a piece of furniture I am refinishing. It was spilled on a just sanded area. Is there anything I can do to remove it before it is finished? This would show through the finish if it were not removed, wouldn't it?
Answer: Linseed oil is usually difficult to remove. Try covering the stained area with a thick paste made of powdered whiting and a nonflammable spot remover, placing a sheet of plastic over this to retard evaporation. As the paste dries, or becomes discolored, replace with fresh paste. Continue this treatment until the linseed oil is drawn out of the wood.

Doctor Discounts Stomach as Chief Cause of Bad Breath

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a very bad case of halitosis. What foods I eat seem to have little to do with it. Brushing my teeth does no good, as the trouble evidently is from the stomach. Even my little children avoid my affection, and it's terribly embarrassing. My general health is good and my teeth are in excellent condition. I am only 23 and have been troubled with this since I was about 14. Please help.—Mrs. B."

I'm one who believes that a condition like halitosis which makes people embarrassed or miserable over a period of years is an important one.

To be sure, when people just imagine that they have this trouble, and fuss and fret without good reason, all you can do for them medically is: first, assure them sincerely that they are just hunting for trouble that doesn't exist; and, if that doesn't work, tell them plainly that they've got to be reasonable and accept the truth.

Careful Attention
But where there's genuine evidence that the breath smells bad over a continuing period of time, it deserves careful attention. It sounds to me as though the condition described in the above letter probably is real, not imagination. However, just because brushing the teeth and changing the diet don't help, it's NOT adequate reason to assume that "the trouble is evidently from the stomach." I'll grant that stomach disorders, MIGHT be the cause. Sometimes they are. Not often, but sometimes. More likely it's in one of the areas through which the breath passes, the respiratory region. That is, the nose, throat, bronchi (or "bronchial tubes" as some call 'em!), the lungs. All these are part of the respiratory system. It seems logical, doesn't it, that you have to consider these areas when looking for the cause of chronic bad breath? There are lung disorders of varying severity. There are infected tonsils or adenoids. There is a condition known as bronchiectasis in the bronchi. There can, also, be infection of the gums, although a dentist will detect that soon enough. The teeth themselves may not show any evidence at first, although in time they will suffer, too. Dental floss may help.

These are among the ready possibilities when bad breath is continuous. Plainly, it will take some skilled observing to determine which trouble is present. Well, that's what doctors are for. Bad breath, if it is real and not just an imaginary or occasional trouble, has a cause. As a practical matter, most of these can be treated effectively, once the real cause is isolated.

Diabetes Test
"Dear Dr. Molner: Where can I go for a test to see if I have diabetes? I have no doctor of my own. And must I take a bottle of urine for urinalysis? I am 63.—R. L."

See (or better yet, call in advance) any doctor in your area and tell him you are concerned about diabetes. Take a sample of urine collected about two hours after eating a meal high in carbohydrates—sugars, starches, etc. A blood test for sugar is even more informative if taken after the meal.
Note to Mrs. H. G.: I recognize hypnosis as a useful tool, if used with full understanding and skill. But I don't believe that everybody with a knife is necessarily a surgeon, and I am suspicious of hypnotists who advertise themselves. Professional people who thoroughly understand hypnosis, its uses and its failings, don't have to advertise themselves.
How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for a copy of his leaflet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Refuse Change In High School District Lines

Postpone Adjustment
Until Seymour or Shiocton Integrates

SEYMOUR — Outagamie and Shawano County School Committees last night turned down by a 9-1 vote a petition to transfer land near Black Creek from Shiocton Union High School District to Seymour Union High School District.

The committees said it would be better to wait until one or both of the high school districts integrate elementary and high school systems before making boundary adjustments.

Granting of the petition, which would make the western boundaries of Black Creek elementary and Seymour High School districts coincide, would be a piecemeal approach to the problem of school district boundary irregularities, committee members said.

One District

The joint committee heard a suggestion that a single school district for all of Outagamie County, except city districts, be considered. This would comprise the present Shiocton, Seymour, Freedom and Hortonville high school districts and would eliminate many boundary lines.

The petition for putting all of Black Creek district in Seymour High School district was signed by 64 people, estimated to be 90 per cent of the residents of the area involved. No one at the public hearing opposed the move, but Shiocton High School board members said at the later conference with the county committees that their district, already small in valuation according to state recommendations, did not want to lose tax base.

Residents of Center Valley, a community about 12 miles from Seymour and eight miles from Shiocton, expressed fear that the county committees might want to take them out of Seymour district and put them in Shiocton district to compensate for the loss of territory near Black Creek. They wanted to continue to send their youngsters to Seymour, a newer, larger high school.

Not Soliciting

The Seymour board said it was not soliciting territory, but could accommodate and would welcome any land the committees would give it. The Seymour board doesn't want to have any of its constituents forced out of the district by a trade, member Lester Krahn said.

County-wide integration, suggested by Herman Wussow of the Black Creek School board, received support of Seymour Supt. L. D. Culver, who pointed to Adams County as an example. That county, with exception of two cor-

Sheriff Staging Possible Epilogue for Sturgeon Bay Peninsula Players Saturday

BY BERT PARMENTIER
Post-Crescent News Service

STURGEON BAY — The next act in the saga of the Peninsula Players will be staged at Door County Courthouse here Saturday. Curtain time is set for 10 a.m. when the real estate of the theatrical company will be sold by Sheriff Marvin Zwicky.

The sale is to satisfy a mortgage against the summer theater held by the Bank of Sturgeon Bay. The mortgage and costs amount to approximately $28,500.

There is considerable speculation surrounding the sale.

There are some, remembering the 11th hour dramatic entry of the mysterious woman in black last year with necessary funds to stave off a federal foreclosure, who are confident that Saturday will not bring down the final curtain for the Peninsula Players. Their conjecture is based on the fact that the company, was integrated into one district about a year ago.

If Outagamie's four high school districts were integrated into one system for elementary and high school, there would be one board to operate as many schools as it felt were necessary, and cost of all the schools would be shared by the large area. The board, again, last summer the bank acquired all the theater's personal property in a sheriff's sale forcing by creditors. Among other things, this includes all the chairs and stage setting equipment.

Dedicate New Armory Feb. 22

Gen. Ralph Olson
Will be Speaker at Oshkosh Ceremony

OSHKOSH — The demonstration of mobile equipment, including tanks, and a talk by Maj. Gen. Ralph Olson, state adjutant general, will be featured at the ground breaking ceremonies for the new National Guard Armory at Oshkosh at 10:30 a.m. Feb. 22.

The state adjutant general will present plans for Civil Defense in the state at a noon luncheon at the American Legion clubhouse.

Attending the ceremonies will be state and local National Guard officers; federal, state and local government officials, and Oshkosh civic and business leaders. The Chamber of Commerce industrial development committee which is assisting in the ground breaking ceremony arrangements, is waiting word from Rep. William K. Van Pelt as to whether he will be able to attend.

The ceremony will begin with the arrival of a military helicopter and presentation of colors. The ground breaking will be by Capt. Herbert Reif and Capt. Joseph Borden, representing the Oshkosh National Guard unit.

Assemblyman William Steiger will be master of ceremonies and will introduce council president Robert Stauffer who will discuss "What the New National Guard Armory Means to Oshkosh" and Hy Eagen, Oshkosh Chamber of Commerce president, who will speak on how the chamber's industrial development committee worked as a team with National Guard officers.

Brig. Gen. Herbert Smith, 32nd things, this includes all the chairs and stage setting equipment.

The theater, in its 26th season last summer, was founded by Mrs. Caroline Rathbone and her brother, Richard Fisher. Mrs. Rathbone has been sole manager since World War II and holds the majority of the common stock. In ill health for several years, she has attended only one play in the last two seasons.

Many Patrons

The Peninsula Players have attracted as many as 25,000 patrons to nine or 10 plays performed each season in a remodeled barn nestled amidst a cluster of tall trees near the shores of Green Bay. Several years ago the Players built a comfortable, rain-proof theater.

It is felt by residents that the loss of the summer attraction would hurt Door County tourist trade.

One reason for the heavy debt, it is pointed out, was the construction of the all-weather pavilion and stage. The building cost about $25,000 and an additional $5,000 was spent on rewiring and repairing the dormitory and other buildings at the same time.

division commander, will introduce the National Guard officers and speak on the meaning of the armory to the Oshkosh National Guard unit." Adj. Gen. Olson will speak at the ground breaking on what the new armory means to the state.

The new armory is located on Ninth Avenue, a short distance east of Highway 41. The ground breaking ceremonies culminate a project of the industrial development committee, headed by Leighton Hough, which began in December, 1958.

Registered voters who are in doubt whether their registrations are still valid should call Broehm's office.

Persons who have moved, even from one ward to another, must have their records corrected, by simply calling the clerk's office.

Persons who have changed their names, principally through marriage, must come to the office and re-register.

Sunday School Teachers To Attend Institute At Bethany Lutheran

Sunday school teachers of Bethany Lutheran Church, Appleton, will be host to more than 100 Sunday school teachers from 20 Wisconsin Synod Lutheran congregations of the Fox Cities area Sunday afternoon.

The session from 2 to 4 p.m. is expected to be the first of a series of institutes for Fox Valley Sunday school teachers, meeting about three times a year.

Floyd Mattek of Bethel Lutheran Church, Menasha, will demonstrate the teaching of Bible stories, and the Rev. Edward Greve of Fox Valley Lutheran High School, a former missionary in Africa, will speak on teaching in Africa.

Appleton Olson Drivers Honored

The National Safety Council has announced driver safety awards to three Appleton drivers of the Olson Transportation Co.

Edward Gosz was recognized for 12 years of driving without a preventable accident. Robert Fisher received an eight year award and Dwain Locy, a 7 year award. The total of 27 years of safe driving was accumulated over the Chicago to Upper Peninsula routes of the company.

Jobs Declared Incompatible

Counselor Would Have to Resign
To be Alderman

An opinion from City Atty. Don Jury and the League of Wisconsin Municipalities says Neal R. Gamsky, 230 S. Christine St., cannot be a city alderman and retain his job as a guidance counselor in the Appleton school system.

Gamsky, 29, filed nomination papers for 13th Ward alderman in the April 4 election.

The legal opinion on whether Gamsky could be an alderman and keep his job was requested by City Clerk Elden Broehm.

Jury and the league ruled the two positions are incompatible, because "the council must appropriate funds for the school system by adoption of a budget. The employees of the school system could therefore be voting upon his own salary increases."

Voting Own Pay

Indirectly Gamsky would be voting on his own pay if he was both an alderman and a school employee, because the council approves the school budget, which contains funds for salaries. The board of education actually sets individual salaries.

It is now too late for Gamsky to withdraw his nomination. Deadline for withdrawals was Tuesday.

Should Gamsky win the election and refuse to take the post so he could keep his school job, the council would take applications for the seat and elect someone to fill it.

There are four other candidates for 13th Ward alderman, including incumbent Ald. Thomas K. Schneider.

Six candidates filed for the job, but Glen Thompson, 1624 S. Wal-

Driving Without License Nets 2-Day Jail Term

OSHKOSH — Melvin L. Linsey, 25, 137 Kaukauna St., Menasha, was given a mandatory two-day county jail sentence plus a $100 fine by Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane this morning when Linsey pleaded guilty of driving after his license had been revoked. He was arrested by state police Jan. 21 on U.S. 41 in the Town of Neenah. His license had been revoked Sept. 8, 1959 for unlawful use of a drivers license.

No other candidates for the spring election withdrew their papers.

GREEN BAY — The controversial "mystery animal" of Waushara County may now be identified with reasonable certainty as the rare, bloodthirsty wolverine — extinct in Wisconsin since 1870.

This dramatic news came to light when a Green Bay restaurateur revealed some motion picture scenes of a "strange animal" which he sighted and photographed last summer only six miles from West Bloomfield.

It is from that community that most persistent reports of a mystery creature have been forthcoming in recent months. Hundreds of huntsmen have prowled the nearby woodlands without avail.

The photographer-restaurateur who filmed the animal is Robert Eckstein, 21, who, with his father, Paul, operates the Park-in-Cafe, 704 Bellview St. here.

His pictures, shot at point-blank range in eight millimeter color film, were made last summer when Eckstein and four friends sighted the animal along Highway 10 near its junction with County Trunk U west of Fremont. The film, studied by photographic experts, appeared unsuitable for reproduction here because of the distance at which the picture was taken and its fuzzy character.

However, Eckstein's pictures were sharp enough to show the color of the animal as well as its peculiarly swift gait as it fled from him towards a wooded area about 100 yards away.

First viewings of the film suggested that the creature might be a small bear, but its method of locomotion was not bear-like, and the speed at which it retreated the 100 yards distance overweighed the first judgements.

Nearly Certain

The film, consisting of 128 frames running through an eight second period, was studied carefully from frame to frame through a film editor. This showed, twice, an unmistakable flick of a tail too long for bear and about the size of a wolverine's.

The size of the creature, its speed, its color and its flashing tail have been sufficient to lead the reporter to the nearly certain conclusion that it can be nothing but a wolverine. The obvious strength of the fleeing animal underscores the theory which was reached only reluctantly.

Eckstein's description, too, supports the theory.

"The animal was about three feet tall and was clearly very strong and exceptionally fast. It did not run like any animal I know, and I have never seen one like the one I photographed," he said.

"I got a good look at it as we drove along. It was in a ditch on the left side of the road. I stopped the car and put it in reverse. When I got to the place I had seen it, I got out of the car with my camera but did not see it again.

"Then it came charging out of a drain pipe and started toward the woods. Because there had been heavy rains, a ditch was filled with water. The animal plunged into the water and swam across. This slowed it enough so I could get it into the viewer and the film shows I caught it just after it left the water.

Look for Impossible

"I attempted to chase it but the water was several feet deep and the animal was moving too fast. I simply kept it in the viewer until it was out of sight. That's all I know, but I'm sure I never saw such an animal before."

Conservation officials were unable to explain its presence here, but Donald Euers, head of the Conservation Department's enforcement work in Brown County said this:

"We have learned that we can almost look for the impossible where animals are concerned." Euers, however, was not available during the study of the films but his judgment will be sought at the first opportunity.

The fortuitous Eckstein motion picture may serve to take the dubiousness from the hunters who have prowled the woods in the West Bloomfield area for months in search of a "mystery animal" which killed and mutilated dogs of the region.

According to Euers, it is the policy of the Conservation Department to permit the hunting of the animal even though it is protected. On the basis of past damage to dogs and of some anxiety in the communities nearby, the department policy — though not the law — would permit the shooting of the creature if it is a wolverine.

Most Hated Animal

Euers said, however, that a member of the department would like to accompany the hunt, if any, to keep it organized and under control. A kill of a protected animal must be reported to the department, he said.

The last reported wolverine in Wisconsin was sighted in central Wisconsin 90 years ago.

The animal stands about three feet tall and weighs upwards of 25 pounds. Ferociously carnivorous and vandallistic to a nearly intolerable degree, it is one of the most hated animals in the woodlands. It is present to some extent in Canada and in Alaska, but its pelt is much sought after.

Eskimos use strips of wolverine fur to trim their parkas, especially the hoods. They believe (but the reporter does not know it to be true) that the fur from a wolverine will not frost. It is for that reason that it is used on parka hoods.

surprise motion pictures near Pore.

The reported kill and mutilation of a 60-pound dog near West Bloomfield last December was so typical of the work of the wolverine that sceptical woodsmen admitted that its presence was a possibility. The ferocity of its attacks and its general boldness have led it to attack injured deer.

Present when Eckstein took his

Gilbert-Sullivan Repertory Part of Center Programs

NEW YORK (AP)— Broadway musicals come and go, but Gilbert & Sullivan keep rolling along.

Audience enthusiasm for the half-century-old operettas now has led to establishment of a repertory company as part of the permanent format for the City Center of Music and Drama.

The performing unit is the Center's fifth, lining up alongside the New York City Ballet, opera, Drama and Light Opera troupes.

Morton Baum, finance chairman of the center, says the unit was created in response to the enthusiastic reception given occasional G & S performances by the opera company.

The first Savoyard regular season launched in January, will include "The Mikado," "The Pirates of Penzance," "H. M. S. Pinafore" and "The Gondoliers."

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — City councilmen here have decided not to change the name of Oak Lawn Drive to Tinker Drive.

The councilmen were afraid that if future development called for a South Tinker Drive, a careless sign painter in abbreviating rates of Penzance." "H. M. S. South might forget to put a period after the "S," resulting in STinker Drive.

Alabama Quartet to Give Thursday Concert

Artists for Chamber Music Series Have Varied, Notable Backgrounds

The Alabama Quartet, a group of artists in residence at the University of Alabama, will appear on the Chamber Music Series in Harper Hall of the Lawrence Music-Drama Center at 8:15 P.M. Thursday.

The quartet is made up of Emil Raab and Roland Johnson, violinists; Henry Barrett, violist; and Margaret Christy, cellist.

Raab, in his third season with the Alabama group, was formerly with the University of Michigan's Stanley Quartet. He holds two degrees from Michigan, and has studied additionally with Hans Letz at Juilliard and Joseph Knitzer at Eastman. During the summer he is principal violin teacher at Transylvania Music Camp and concertmaster of the Brevard, N.C., Festival Orchestra.

Conducts Symphony

Roland Johnson, second violin, was trained at the Cincinnati College of Music and was a pupil of Edouard Dethier at the Juilliard School of Music. He studied conducting at the Berkshire Music Center, and directed both choral and orchestral ensembles at Cincinnati. He has held a Fleischmann fellowship for a year's study in Europe with Herman Scherchen. At Alabama he conducts the symphony, the choral union and the opera workshop.

Violist Henry Barrett has studied with Ottokar Cadek and is an alumnus of Alabama. He has been leading violist with the Birmingham Symphony.

Miss Christy received her early musical training from two cellists with the Minneapolis Symphony—Engelbert Roentgen and Nicholas Graundau. She holds her master's degree from Columbia, and has studied with Willem Willeke at Juilliard, and with Pablo Casals in Prades, France. She is associated with the Transylvania Music Camp and the Brevard Festival Orchestra during the summers.

Among the works to be performed are Vincent Persichetti's Third String Quartet Op. 81, which was commissioned by the University of Alabama for the ensemble and given its premiere in April 1959.

The complete program follows: Quartet in D major, Op. 76, No. 6 Haydn

'Maverick' Role All Over for James Garner

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Portrait of a free man: James Garner. He is bright of eye, light of foot and quick of wit.

But then, Garner was all these things even under his subjugation to Warner Brothers. If he seems more so, it is because he is virtually a free agent and hence can collect a pot of Hollywood gold for his very own.

The handsome Oklahoman was at work—his first film job in a year—shooting a segment of "Angel" with Annie Farge and Marshall Thompson.

"What a breeze, not being in every scene," said the one-time "Maverick."

There are no more Mavericks in Garner's future. Recently he won his suit for freedom from Warner Brothers. The studio is appealing, but the actor estimates the chance of a reversal at 700-1.

Plays Himself

Why did he choose a TV comedy in which to return? Garner rubbed together the thumb and first two fingers of one hand.

"But it's also a cute script," he said. "And I play myself in it. I'm also doing the Bob Hope and Dinah Shore shows as myself. That is all I will do in television. I won't do any more roles."

Garner's film fortunes will be given a better chance, judging from the offers he's getting. He has been talking about doing "The Children's Hour."

"That's not bad company—William Wyler as producer-director and Audrey Hepburn and Shirley Maclaine as co-stars," he said. "So far, we've only been talking."

The actor has also been hearing sweet talk from studios that want him for a picture-a-year deal. But after his years at Warners, he's not falling for that dodge.

Nor is he interested in the dozens of offers for TV series, despite the fortunes that are dangled before him. Most are for half ownership, and one agency even offered a percentage of its own earnings.

"Thanks, but no thanks," says the happy maverick.

Start Negotiations For Ravine Land

Board to Meet With Owners; Committee Recommends Site

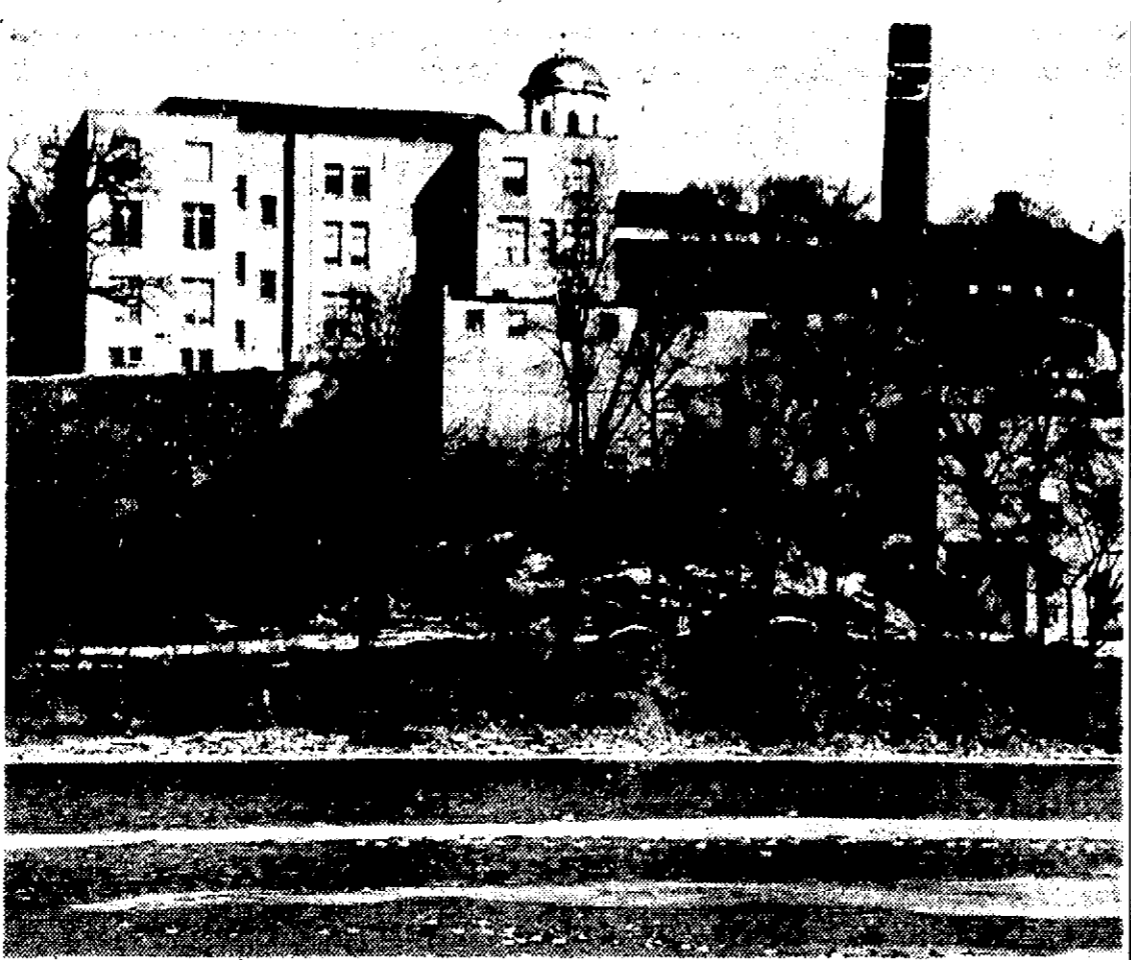

Appleton's board of public negotiations to buy the Frenzel works will begin negotiations next week to buy property in the Division - Packard Streets ravine. The public safety committee Tuesday night recommended building a parking ramp on the two lots on the southeast and southwest corners of Division and Washington Streets. These lots, adjacent to each other, are scheduled to be ramped some time in the future. The Frenzel property is in an estate and its purchase must be discussed with all the heirs.

Acquiring the ravine land is part of Mayor Clarence Mitchell's plan to help solve downtown parking problems. The council approved his proposals last week. Eleven property owners are involved. Board members decided to have a special meeting at 7 p.m. Monday to explain to them what is needed and why.

One board member said the people are worried that another farmers' market and pig fair will develop. They will be assured that no such thing will be allowed, the board asserted.

During the next several weeks appointments will be made with the 11 land owners to discuss price.

Railroad Lease
The Appleton Board of Realtors has appraised the ravine property at about $60,000. It would accommodate 600 cars for all-day parkers, principally downtown workers, at a nominal fee. The city will not buy lots with homes on them. Board members also will begin

Some Creatures Actually Make a Point of spending the winter here. A couple of hundred of them—American golden eye and white winged scoter ducks—were seen on the Fox River. Here part of the flock is shown behind Lawrence College Main Hall and Science Hall. Both types of ducks winter in the Great Lakes area.

Both companies will use the funds for plant construction.

A former lecturer at universities in Japan, India and Germany, Current received his Ph.D. from Wisconsin in 1939. After teaching at Illinois and North Carolina and other colleges he returned to Wisconsin as a full professor last year.

Asks Teens be Banned From Night Driving

Grant Says Action Would Contribute to Highway Safety

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Assemblyman Alexander Grant of Green Bay today asked the legislature to prohibit night-time operation of motor vehicles by licensed drivers under the age of 18.

The freshman legislator, who came to his seat after serving as Brown County district attorney, said such action would contribute to highway safety by reducing needless joy-riding by young people.

He said there have been serious accidents in Green Bay and vicinity in recent months showing the need for stricter controls on driving activities of young people. The legislator also said he is considering sponsoring a bill to make it illegal for any establishment to sell intoxicants to persons under 21.

Such legislation would eliminate the so-called beer taverns, already prohibited by local ordinances of some Wisconsin communities, which are permitted to sell beer to persons 18 and over.

George H. Bauerlein, 67, was found dead at 6:30 p.m. Monday in his room at his boarding house at 1353 W. Lawrence St.

Tax Commissioner to Speak to Democrats

John Gronouski, state commissioner of taxation, will speak to the Outagamie County Democratic party at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Driftwood Room of Stand and Lumber Co., 1100 N. Laws St.

Lester Balliet, party chairman, said the Eighth District caucus to be held at Green Bay also will be discussed.

nard Kemps said today Bauerlein died of a heart attack. He was a retired Chicago grocery store operator.

Color Barrier

Northern Rhodesia Whites, Negroes Exist Without Bad Results

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — "The color bar can be dropped and removal of racial discrimination can be achieved without serious dislocation. It has been proved here."

This is the conclusion of a group of white southern African newspapers which surveyed Northern Rhodesia's great race relations experiment — letting Negroes into hotel lounges, restaurants and movies which previously were the preserve of the white man.

This experiment has now been in force since Sept. 1 and, the survey concluded, "the troubles of the first two or three days, which erupted in physical violence at some places, are now forgotten."

The survey added:
Negroes Accepted
"Natives (Negroes) are accepted in the tea rooms, cafes, restaurants, hotel dining rooms, hotel lounges and cinemas of Northern Rhodesia. And the nine days wonder of experiment in September, 1960, has now become the commonplace. . . ."

"This does not mean that the change has been without loss or inconvenience. . . . There are hotels, restaurants and cinemas in various parts of the territory which claim to have lost business as a result of the introduction of the race relations ordinance. But it must be said that others make no such claim and there are even one or two restaurants which say their business had increased as a result of the new measure."

Turn Backs
Compensation to business owners for loss which can be proved to be due to the abolition of the color bar is provided for under the ordinance. Up to Dec. 31, six claims had been received by the compensation assessments tribunal which sits in this capital city.

At first the Negroes rushed into lounges of hotels and the whites yielded chairs and tables to them and turned their backs while sitting on bar stools. Also many whites at first boycotted movie houses when Negroes rushed in.

But this soon died away. Many Negroes did not care very much for the programs presented in the white cinemas and preferred the western pictures and cartoons shown in the small movies in their "native townships."

Oyster Casserole Menu Brightener

This casserole of oysters will brighten winter menus and keep the family coming back for more. Oysters are an excellent food for the entire family as they are rich in protein, minerals and vitamins — nutrients necessary for good health.

It's true that oysters are expensive, but this recipe uses only a pint and extends them with shell macaroni and grated cheese.

Seashell Casserole
1 pint oysters
2 cups uncooked shell macaroni
½ cup butter
1 clove garlic
½ cup flour
2 cups milk
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups grated cheddar cheese
Drain oysters, reserving one cup liquid. Cook macaroni according to directions on package.

Meanwhile, melt butter in a saucepan. Peel garlic, split in half and brown in butter. Remove pan from heat. Discard garlic. Stir in flour until smooth. Gradually add oyster liquid and milk. (If oyster liquid is not used, add one extra cup of milk.) Stir until well blended. Return to heat and cook until thick. Stir in salt, pepper and grated cheese.

Pour into buttered two-quart casserole. Make a well in center and pour in oysters. Bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes. Recipe serves six to eight persons.

Gil Frank to Give Up Cage Job After Current Season

Stays on as Kimberly's Athletic Boss

Gil Frank, one of the state's most successful high school basketball coaches, will give up his Kimberly cage position after the current season.

Frank's resignation has been accepted by the school board. Each board member expressed regret at Frank's decision, according to School Superintendent Ray Hamann.

Frank, who is rounding out his tenth year at Kimberly, will continue with the school as a social studies teacher, the athletic director and head track coach.

Five Championships
In his first nine seasons, Frank directed the Papermakers to five Mid-Eastern Conference championships (all but one undisputed) and twice led a team to the state tournament in Madison. The 1960-1 Papermakers are currently tied for the M-E lead. In approximately 200 games, Frank-coached Kimberly teams have a winning percentage of .780. For M-E play, the mark is close to .800. The decision, which Frank says he was thinking about for a long time, was prompted by, among other things, the increasing pressure of basketball coaching and the expansion of his athletic director's duties.

After 20 years of basketball coaching (at Montello, Adams-Friendship and Kimberly), Frank feels he's been in it "long enough."

With the Kimberly High School enrollment due to increase substantially in the next few years, Frank says the athletic directorship will entail more responsibilities.

As recreation director for the community, Frank also anticipates a step-up of the wintertime program.

Frank is a graduate of Wisconsin State College, Oshkosh (where he performed on the basketball and track teams) and has attended the University of Wisconsin.

At least twice in Frank's regime, Kimberly was rated the No. 1 team in the state after the regular season. Still the smallest school in the M-E (the current enrollment is 350), Kimberly is one of the smallest ever to hold the top spot in the "Big 16."

No successor will be named immediately, Hamann reports.

Appleton and Neenah '5s' Post Wins

Hilbert Hands Fox Lutheran 60-55 Setback

Strong Rebounding Key to Victory; Pruess Scores 21

HILBERT—A strong third period enabled Hilbert High School to hand Fox Valley Lutheran a 60-55 setback Tuesday night.

The win was Hilbert's ninth of the season against six losses. The Foxes have a 7-3 record.

After a close first half, which saw the lead change hands a number of times, Hilbert pulled in front with 18 points in the third period while the Foxes managed 14.

Hold Slim Lead

Both teams scored 12 in the initial period and Hilbert had a slim 25-23 lead at the intermission. In the final period, the Foxes had a 18-17 scoring edge.

Strong rebounding work by Jerry Baer and Ron Schneider, particularly on the offensive boards, proved a major factor in the Hilbert win. The pair made a number of easy buckets after grabbing off rebounds.

Alan Pruess of Hilbert was the game's top scorer with 21 points on eight field goals and five free throws. Schneider added 17.

For the Foxes, Dennis Dobberstein had 14 markers and Darrell Mindell bagged 13.

Umpires' Friends are Sincere, Says Landes

NL Arbiter Declares He Doesn't Let Catcalls Bother Him

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA—The friends that an umpire makes during his career "have to be sincere," Stan Landes, six-year veteran of the National League umpiring staff, told a Fox Valley Traffic Club gathering at the Valley Inn Tuesday night.

Landes pointed out that several of the friends a ball player accumulates during his career soon fade away when the player is no longer in the headlines.

"When an umpire goes on the field he knows that 99 per cent of the people in the ball park are rooting for one of the teams to win," Landes told the group. He pointed out that his decisions make a lot of enemies during the course of a season if you consider the fact that about half of the 99 per cent are rooting for one team and half are rooting for the other team.

The catcalls don't bother him, though, he said. He realizes that fans have paid their way in and is glad of that fact.

Place to Yell

He thinks of most of them as being "hen-pecked." The men want to get away from their wives and the ball park is a place they can come to yell anything they want to without getting it from their wife, the speaker said. Most of the women that heckle the umpires want to get away from their husbands, Landes commented.

A resident of a Milwaukee suburb, Greenfield, Stan said he worked in Milwaukee only nine days last year. He's glad that Wrigley Field is so close to Milwaukee though and he's glad that they play only day games there as he can come home at night after an assignment there.

Landes held the club's attention with stories on his experiences and jokes. He also answered several questions from the audience. One of the interesting questions concerned the much discussed subject of a first baseman pulling his foot off the bag after taking a throw from the infield. Many believe that first basemen "cheat."

Two Rivers	2	8	546	604

Friday's Games:
Menasha at Kimberly.
Clintonville at Neenah.
Shawano at New London.
Kaukauna at Two Rivers.

Kimberly, Neenah, and Shawano will battle to grasp the lead in the close Mid-Eastern Conference race Friday night with Kimberly facing the toughest test.

The Papermakers will play host to the fourth-place Menasha Bluejays, while Neenah and Shawano play second division teams.

The Jays will be out to avenge a 71-48 drubbing handed them by Kimberly at the Menasha gym in December. Bill Ritchie, who was in uniform but sat out the Two Rivers affair last week, is reported to be ready to go.

Kimberly has suffered three straight losses since getting by Neenah, 69-64, in overtime. Coach Gil Frank's cagers have been beaten by Shawano, Clintonville, and Kaukauna in succession.

The surprising Trucker, who fought off a New London rally last week to take a one-point decision, will be at Neenah. Clintonville has won its last three games by a combined margin of five points. Coach Carl Bruggink's crew tipped Two Rivers, 56-54; Kimberly, 51-49; and New London, 64-63.

In Neenah, Clintonville will be up against a team that beat them in the first round, 87-78.

Shawano is currently the hottest team in the Mid-Eastern wheel. The Indians have taken care of five league foes in a row and, in New London, will face a squad they turned back, 62-48, in the first meeting.

Kaukauna and Two Rivers will stage their own private "war". The winner will emerge from the league cellar. Two Rivers won the December match, 42-37.

Xavier '5' Eyes Fifth Straight Win Tonight

Xavier High School's basketball team guns for its fifth straight victory tonight when it plays a return engagement against Pittsville Maryheart.

The game marks Xavier's second last home appearance of the season. Monday's contest against Gibraltar will constitute the home-court windup.

The Hawks thumped Maryheart, 74-47, on the latter's court Dec. 14. Eleven Hawks got into the scoring act, with "Kip" Whittinger's 16 points leading the way.

Xavier has won four straight since losing to Premontre Jan. 19.

Manager Confident Bolling and McMillan Make Braves Stronger

BY CHUCK DRESSEN

LOS ANGELES (AP)—I don't think it's any secret that I was disappointed with the Braves' overall showing last season. But considering some of our weak spots I guess we didn't do too badly in finishing second.

I'm sure we went a long way in ironing out those weak points during the winter and I'm confident we'll have a stronger club this season. Our major addition was Frank Bolling, the second baseman who did a capable job for Detroit for several years. Second base was the position where we needed help the most and with Bolling around there no longer are any worries.

Roy Newcomer
Another fellow I'm happy to see join our club is Roy McMillan. With Cincinnati, he showed he was one of the best fielding shortstops in the game. Johnny Logan, who has been the Milwaukee shortstop for quite a while, had one of his poorest years in 1960. Still, I'm not counting him out and if he can beat McMillan out all well and good. Johnny is the better hitter of the two.

The rest of the infield is set with Joe Adcock at first base and Eddie Mathews at third. Whether McMillan or Logan wins the regular job, there's little doubt in my mind that we'll have the best defensive infield in the National League. And it shapes up as a pretty good hitting infield too.

With Billy Bruton moving to Detroit in the Bolling deal, it leaves a vacancy in center field. But my present plans call for Hank Aaron to shift there from right field.

I'm also looking for Hank to lift his batting average back to the .330 or .340 mark. Wes Covington is set in left field if he can show us he's recovered from the leg injuries that slowed him down the past two seasons. Lee Maye and Al Spangler will fight it out for the regular right field job.

Catching is no problem. We have one of the top guys in Del Crandall and another experienced man in Charley Lau.

Johnson Defeats Bowdry for Title

Cops NBA Light Heavyweight Crown on Ninth Round TKO

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Harold Johnson is the new National Boxing Association world light heavyweight champion, but he still isn't quite happy.

"I don't feel like I'm the champ yet," the usually taciturn Philadelphia said in his dressing room Tuesday night after stopping young Jesse Bowdry of St. Louis in the ninth round to win the blessings of the NBA.

"When I beat the old man (Archie Moore) I'll get that feeling." Moore knocked out Johnson in the 14th round in Johnson's only other shot at the title. The NBA whisked the crown from Moore's furrowed brow when he took an indifferent attitude towards defending it.

The sharp-featured, muscled Johnson has been seeking a return bout since that 1954 kayo, with frustration piling on frustration. Tuesday night he put his frustration to work. Usually a cautious fighter, he suddenly turned tiger.

On Canvas
He put Bowdry on the canvas three times in a classic variety of poses, and after the third knockdown, referee Cy Gottfried decided the wobbly, woozy, rubber-legged youth was in no condition to continue.

The end came in 45 seconds of the ninth round. The record crowd of 4,017 which paid a non-record $20,829.50 started whooping.

Johnson, at 172 pounds, was the artist, while the 23-year-old Bowdry, at 173, was the tenacious bulldog, making himself a difficult target. The first few rounds were uneventful.

Late in the sixth Bowdry landed a couple of good punches and suddenly became too brave. He dove in again and was clipped by a left hook. He started to throw another punch, but suddenly fell apart in a delayed action fall. He took a count of nine.

Johnson was a whirling pinwheel of action as the ninth opened. He threw punches from everywhere, with a solid left to

Floyd Studies Movies Of First 'Ingo' Bout

Doesn't Expect To Abandon His Peek-a-Boo Style

SPRING VALLEY, N.Y. (AP)—Floyd Patterson must prefer horror movies to happy endings. The world heavyweight boxing champion watches the films of his first fight with Ingemar Johansson—not the second.

As Patterson was knocked down seven times in the first fight when he lost his title, and flattened Ingo the second time around, it seemed like a strange choice.

"The last fight is when I made

Did Patterson expect to abandon his peek-a-boo style?

"I don't think so," he said. "Did you think I did in the work-out? I was trying different things. But in an actual fight, I would have my hands back up there."

Patterson's peek-a-boo style, in which he holds both hands high to block off head punches, has been criticized by many.

Weighted 196 Patterson, who plans to leave for a Florida camp next Tuesday, said he weighed 196 "about a week ago" when he last stepped on the scales. That is six more than he weighed for his second fight with Johansson last June.

"I am not trying for any particular weight," he said. "Whatever comes is all right with me. I like to work with heavy sweat pants. Before other fights they were afraid I would take off too much weight so I boxed in trunks only. But this time I have weight to spare."

Patterson boxed four rounds Tuesday in training for his March 13 third fight with the Swede in Miami Beach. He didn't over-exert himself against his sparring partners, Wilson Hannibal and the champ's 18-year-old brother, Ray, who is competing in the Golden Gloves as a heavyweight.

81-78 overtime loss at DePaul just before Christmas.

DePaul has been having its troubles lately, losing four out of the last five games, but accepted a bid to the NIT tournament in New York before heading for Milwaukee and the Marquette encounter. The Chicago team has a 12-4 record.

Shake Up Lineup

Marquette coach Ed Hickey shook up his starting lineup after the St. Bonaventure game. Junior letterman Joe Scanlon will open with Ron Glaser in the backcourt, while sophomore Dave Erickson will start up front with Don Kojis and big Len Jefferson. Scanlon replaces Dick Nixon while Erickson will take over from Bob Hornak.

Hickey said he thinks his team will show DePaul it has improved a lot, especially in the rebounding department, since the Warriors' loss in Chicago. The little coach indicated he is very optimistic about Marquette upsetting DePaul.

"DePaul hasn't been going so good on the road," Hickey said in noting the Chicago team's four straight losses away from home. "And despite the last two games with Bradley and St. Bonaventure we've improved. We've also been taking it easy the past week and should be rested for this one."

The Warriors, who have a 9-7 record, have won seven of nine starts at home. On the road, they have a 2-5 record.

The tipoff is set for 8 p.m.

Yuma, Ariz. — Dave Rent, 190, Liverpool, England, knocked out with 23 points. Rick Zakos had 21. Largest lawyer and Howard Mey-Claude Hodgins, 184, Los Angeles. The victory won Fond du Lac a place in the quarter-finals.

ACC Race Now 3-Way Scramble; Texas Tech, Kentucky Triumph

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fourth member of the "Tobacco Road" quartet that has boomed North Carolina into the basketball capital of the South since shortly after Case came from Indiana in 1946 to take over the Wolfpack and raise college basketball interest to a fever pitch in the area.

While State was showing it should still be reckoned with in the ACC tournament that determines the league's NCAA representative, Texas Tech, Princeton, Rhode Island, and Kentucky improved their conference ledgers and St. Joseph's (Pa.) moved closer to a tournament berth.

But his Raleigh Wolfpack still has that knack for an upset snack against a touted team.

Third-ranked Duke became the latest victim of Case and the Wolfpack Tuesday night, falling to its first Atlantic Coast Conference defeat and only its second in 18 games—61-59 on sub Terry Litchfield's long jumper with two seconds left.

A glove-tight defense that tied Duke's ace sophomore, Art Heyman, into a one-point knot in the first half, plus steady scoring from Russ Marvel, Bob Distefano, Johnny Pungier and Dutch Muehlbauer did the job for State and tossed the rugged ACC race into three-way scramble that now has Wake Forest leading at 9-1, Duke second at 8-1, and North Carolina third at 7-1.

Behind them comes N.C. State.

Western Condensing boosted its YMCA Men's Fellowship Volleyball League second round record to 7-1 earlier this week by copping three of four games from the Y's Men.

In last Thursday's action unbeaten Lakeview (4-0) opened second round action by winning four straight from Riverside. Western Condensing swept its match with McHugh Septic. And, Marathon, downed Y's Men, 3-1.

Lakeview and Western Condensing tied for first round honors with 21-9 marks.

'Western' Cops Three Volleyball Victories

St. Joseph's (Pa.) gave scoring ace Jack Egan the night off but still crushed Elizabethtown 98-65 for a 15-4 record. The Hawks are heading for another bid to the National Invitation Tournament, which Tuesday nailed Providence (15-2) and DePaul (12-4), unless they should win the Middle Atlantic Conference. In that case, St. Joseph's would compete in the NCAA scuffling.

on this play and actually remove their foot before the ball is in their glove.

Landes explained that "to you as a fan it may seem that the first baseman is taking his foot off the bag but the umpire watches the ball go into the glove and the runner going to first."

Time to Get Out

He told of the many checks that are made on umpires during the season and said they must stay away from gamblers or suspicion is aroused. He commented that when he can't make an honest and just decision, it will be time for him to get out.

A minor league pitcher before he turned to umpiring, Landes told the group about a fan that kept heckling him about his name.

The fan thought his name was spelled "Landis" and continued to remind him that just like his name he had only one eye.

The audience roared when Landes told how he turned around and revealed to the fan that his name didn't have any "i's" at all.

The speaker told the Club that National League President Warren Giles feels that an umpire should have six years of experience before he is given a World Series assignment. "Giles feels that the ball players have to build up their confidence in an umpire," he reported.

He told them he had his six years in and was assigned to the Series this past year. "I saw a town go wild," he declared, speaking of Pittsburgh winning the world championship.

He said that one of the more happier individuals was the groundskeeper. Stan said he heard him say "They talk about my infield all year and look, my little pebble won Pittsburgh a World Series."

Spaniard, 22, Among Best of Pro Net Stars

Andres Gimeno Has Developed Fast On Kramer's Tour

NEW YORK (AP)—When Jack Kramer signed Andres Gimeno for his professional tennis circus last July, a lot of folks thought the money-man had lost his touch.

Here was a 22-year-old Spaniard, who never had won much of anything during a brief international career, being thrown to the lions—the likes of Lew Hoad, Ken Rosewall and Pancho Gonzales.

"I wondered why Jack was signing me, too," Gimeno said today. "I always thought I might make a good player someday, but to be thrown in with that crowd did scare me."

Olmedo Leads

Instead of being a whipping boy, though, Gimeno has played the other pros to a standstill. At the moment Alex Olmedo is leading the tour, but Gimeno is bunched with Gonzales and Hoad, right behind him.

"I did get a break when the tour started out," said Gimeno. "We played most of our matches on clay, and I was used to it. The Americans and Australians were more used to grass."

Gimeno, who is handsome, slim and single, has played champion Gonzales twice on the tour—and beaten him twice.

"I shook all over when I first played him," said Gimeno, "but once the match started, it didn't bother me. Another thing that has helped—I start fast. Some of the top players like to take it easy at the start and fall behind."

Said Kramer: "I wasn't so dumb. I spotted Andres' potential in '58 in Wimbledon. Matter of fact, I saw him play only three or four games when I decided to go for him. He's the first of the crowd with a lot of potential but who isn't a big name. I think he might replace Gonzales some day."

Marinette's Skowland Is Point Leader Replaces Prinsen As High Scorer in Extension League

MENASHA — Dave Skowland, of Marinette, replaced DuWayne Prinsen, of Sheboygan, as the top scorer in the University of Wisconsin Extension Conference after last week's action.

Skowland has produced 221 points in 10 league games while Prinsen has put in 204 markers in nine. Prinsen's point-per-game average is 22.7 compared to Skowland's 22.1.

Two Fox Valley players are listed in the top ten league scorers. Jay Drzewiecki is seventh with 154 points while Art Rupright follows with 150.

Fox Valley will play in a doubleheader this weekend. The team will meet Kenosha Friday and Racine Saturday in contests that will be played as part of a doubleheader. Friday, the games will be played at Racine and Saturday at Kenosha. Fox Valley will exchange opponents with Green Bay on the second night.

Manitowish is currently the league-leader with an unbeaten mark in 10 games. Sheboygan and Wausau are deadlocked for second place with 7-3 records.

K-C Film Viewed By 100 Ad Men

NEENAH — Kimberly - Clark Corp. new color film on corporate identification, "Faces and Fortunes", is being shown at a national advertising conference this week.

H. U. Hoffman, KC advertising and promotion supervisor, and one of 100 advertising officials attending the Feb. 6-10 seminar on advertising effectiveness at Saranac Lake, N. Y., will show the film. The seminar is sponsored by the American Management Association.

"Faces and Fortunes" was recently premiered in Chicago before a selected audience of editors, business executives, designers and graphic arts consultants. ### ERA King Signs for $25,000

Giants Think Marichal, McCormick to be Aces

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants expect two of the youngest pitchers in the major leagues to provide their 1-2 mound punch this year.

The youngsters with the big responsibility are southpaw Mike McCormick, 22, and right-hander Juan Marichal, 23.

McCormick, 15-12 last season, was the earned run king of the National League with 2.70. He signed his 1961 contract Tuesday for an estimated $25,000, described by Giants Vice President Chub Feeney as a "very good raise."

2.66 ERA Marichal, a poised second-year man from the Dominican Republic, was 6-2 and had a 2.66 ERA but didn't appear in enough games for eligibility for the title.

He joined the Giants after mid-season and won his first four starts.

Feeney said he and Alvin Dark, the Giants' new manager, figure on McCormick and Marichal as the nucleus of the pitching staff. Among the others in the "solid six" are veteran right-handers

Boosts Sales, Income Drops

"Lower selling prices and higher costs" resulted in a 13 per cent decline in net income of Container Corp. of America last year despite record sales. Wesley M. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .60 at 234.80 with industrials up 1.10, rails up .30 and utilities up .10.

Gains of fractions to about a point among key stocks outnumbered losers as the list moved over of irregularly amid a series of trading waves.

Brokers said the chart action of a number of issues, combined with corporate news, gave incentive to traders.

Airlines, rails, nonferrous metals, tobaccos, drugs, motors, chemicals, and aircrafts were generally higher. Utilities, steels, and rubbers were mixed.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.48 to 645.42.

Woman Injured in Crash; Car Lands in a Back Yard

Mrs. Regina Vetter, 40, 211 S. Casalamo Drive, was injured at 9:50 p.m. Tuesday when the car she was riding in went out of control on W. Wisconsin Avenue and stopped in a back yard 96 feet from the roadway.

She is in fair condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital with head injuries, shock and apparent amnesia.

Appleton police said the car was traveling west in the 1400 block of W. Wisconsin Avenue when it struck the right curb, traveled 150 feet across the avenue where it bounced over the left curb and hit a telephone pole.

Mrs. Vetter was thrown out of the car at the curb. The car continued across the terrace and narrowly missed a trellis. It stopped in the back yard of the Art Hansen home, 1223 N. Gillett St.

Mrs. Vetter was taken to the hospital by Larry's ambulance.

Once Started, Price Fixing Kept Growing

Corporate Circles Say It Grew Naturally To Bring Order Out of Chaotic Situation

By SAM DAWSON PHILADELPHIA (AP) — How did the big antitrust conspiracy among most of the nation's makers of electrical equipment start? How did it spread? How did it work?

In corporate circles many claim it just grew naturally in an attempt to bring order out of a chaotic situation. The industry was plagued by frequent ups and downs, by price cutting in which only the big could survive, by inability of small companies to enter new fields.

So it turned to what similar companies often do in Europe, to what was done here during the depression under the NRA.

Kept on Growing Once started, price fixing and market dividing kept on growing. The federal government says operations became almost perfect in the industry which averages $2 billion sales a year. Some executives borrowed methods very probably had read in whodunits.

Fines for what the government calls a cynical and long-established violation of antitrust laws come to almost $2 million and more startling to many businessmen—seven of their colleagues are sentenced to jail for 30 days.

The Justice Department scoffs at company pleas that the deals actually were good for both the makers of the big gadgets and the public and customers because market stability benefits all. The government says the customers—public and private—were faced with rigged bids to maintain or raise prices and give all hands a predetermined percentage of the bubble burst when customers complaining that American bids over the years looked too much alike and were well above foreign bids for the same equipment.

Prices were agreed upon and often business apportioned by seeing that companies took turns in making the best bid for a job. Sometimes rotation was made by frequent checking of market conditions. Sometimes it was automatic, each taking its turn at a prearranged time. Sometimes it was geographic—areas set up in which specified companies rotated with the winning bids.

The government charged, and defense attorneys admitted, two types of meetings: the high level at which prices and shares of business were set; the low level, at which subordinates saw to the rotation of winning bids as market conditions determined. (Some companies say their very top men were unaware of the practice at all.)

IS OUR FAVORITE WORD!

We like to give "yes" for an answer to applicants for a home loan. And it's usually very easy for us to do so especially if the applicant is ready for home ownership. Savings entrusted to Twin City Savings and Loan Association are loaned to people of good credit standing who want to buy or build homes.

The borrower's and lender's chief concern, in arranging for a home loan, is to fit the repayment schedule to income. A sensible and workable relationship with Twin City Savings and Loan provides the flexibility that keeps the personal relationships between the borrower and lender intact at all times. Thousands of families are proving that home ownership is possible for people of all income classes using the Twin City Savings and Loan monthly installment plan to purchase.

Twin City Savings and Loan confines its lending within 50 miles of its Twin City location. By working closely with government and other agencies, home loans with as little as 5% or 10% down can be arranged. Repayment up to 25 and 30 years to repay can often be arranged. Consult a broker or phone PA 2-2831 for an interview.
